PREFATORY.

The time-interval since the Association's last pamphlet was put forth, in 1902, is largely due to our irreparable loss by death of our President, the Honorable Josiah Hayden Drummond, LL.D. His executive mind and tireless energy carried the annual pamphlet through the press so long as he lived, and it is to be feared too much of the cost was defrayed from his own purse when our treasury was meagre.

In compiling the present issue two purposes have been foremost: first, to make it in some worthy sense a memorial of Mr. Drummond by bearing printed testimony to his worth and our thankful memory of him, as well as by giving the genealogical record of Mrs. Drummond from the fourth generation down as her husband had prepared it; and second, by recording and sending forth the illuminating and invaluable address given by our kinsman, Azel Ames, M. D., at the Lawrence meeting in September, 1906. This address resumes the work where Mr. Drummond had been compelled by his too early death to leave it, verifies and completes in many respects the researches which he and our late estimable Secretary, Dearborn G. Bean, had made, and succeeds in planting our family on those actual foundations for which at his death he was laboriously seeking. The labor of our genealogist, Dr. Ames, was immense, and the results are beyond ordinary estimation.

This pamphlet also contains the proceedings of all the meetings since its last predecessor was printed, the lists of attendants and the usual necrological announcements and memorial sketches.

Never has our Association stood on so adequate a basis of well-proven facts and traditions, and the prospect of possessing a written family history before long which, in completeness, will equal that of any other American family, is encouragingly bright.

SEVENTH REUNION

OF THE DESCENDANTS

JOHN BEAN OF EXETER.

The seventh reunion of the John Bean Association was convened at Concord, N. H., Wednesday, September 9, 1903. Many members gathered at an informal reception held by the officers in the parlors of the Eagle Hotel the evening previous, and renewed former or made new acquaintances.

The opening session of the Association was held in Capitol Hall, on Warren Street. Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D. D., of Newburyport, the first Vice President, presiding, who feelingly announced the death of the late President, Hon. Josiah H. Drummond, LL. D., of Portland, Me. About sixty of the Bean kindred were in attendance.

A cordial address of welcome to the region was given by Rufus E. Bean of Franklin Falls, N. H., to which fitting response was made by the presiding officer. All then joined in the Lord's Prayer and a hymn was sung.

Rufus E. Bean of Franklin, N. H., was chosen Secretary pro tem.

A committee to nominate officers and committees for the next year was appointed as follows: Rufus E. Bean, Franklin, N. H., Edwin C. Bean, Belmont, N. H., Mrs. F. M. Stockwell, Lyndonville, Vt., Cotton W. Bean, New York, and Miss Martha A. Robinson.

A committee on the time and place of the next meeting, consisting of Hon. George F. Bean, Woburn, Mass., Samuel Bean, Lebanon, N. H., and N. O. Bean, was also named.

Several letters from members unable to attend were read and these were followed by addresses commemorative of recently deceased members and kindred, and obituary sketches in memory of the late Vice President Rev. John Wesley Bean of Blackwater, N. H., Rev. Leroy Samuel Bean of Saco, Me., Hon. Josiah Jones Bean of Gilmanton, N. H., Miss Lilla Adams Stott of Lowell, and John Harrison Bean of Haverhill, were read as follows:

Rev. John Wesley Bean. Born at West Salisbury, N. H., June 17, 1836; died at North Salem, N. H., January 23, 1903. His descent was John[1], James[2], John[3], Sinkler[4], Phineas[5], John[6], John Wesley[7]. He was also descended from John[1] on the side of his paternal grandmother, Judith (Snow), wife of Phineas[5], on this latter line being of the sixth generation. He was the twelfth of thirteen children, all of whom married and had families.

While in attendance at the high school in his native town, he felt himself divinely called to the ministry; and after studying two years at the Biblical Institute at Concord, N. H., joined the Methodist Episcopal Conference at Nashua, N. H., in 1871, on probation, and was received into full connection at Haverhill, Mass., in 1875.

Of his ministry I quote the printed testimony of Rev. Daniel J. Smith, a prominent member of the New Hampshire Conference, as given immediately after his death: "He was a man of sterling qualities, and of a high degree of Christian character—sincere, conscientious, reliable, exemplary, a pattern of good works. An earnest preacher, energetic, forcible, presenting the truth with great fervency of spirit; he sought to convince and persuade. Of unwavering faith in Christian doctrine, loyal to the church, deeply spiritual, having the courage of his convictions, yet of a kindly, helpful spirit, faithful, diligent, not sparing himself; he regarded 'the office of a bishop as a good work.'"

This kinsman of ours was one of the five who by agreement, as a voluntary committee, met at Exeter in 1895, and planned the organization of our Association,—only one of whom survives. No member of our family brotherhood gave more hearty interest to our work and purposes; no one brought to our meetings a warmer heart and hand; and no one who has passed away has left a more spotless record.

He was an officer of our Association from its beginning to his death.

Mr. Bean married (1) Miss Phebe D. Tucker, of Salisbury, N. H.; (2) Miss Sarah B. Sanders, of Grafton, N. H., who survives him, as does his son, Newell W. Beane, M. D., an officer of this Association, and an adopted daughter, Minnie F. Beane.

A brother of our friend, Rev. James Mowry Bean, who died in 1897, was also of the New Hampshire Conference, and was one of the five originators of our Association, serving us as its treasurer until his death.

S. C. B.

Rev. Leroy Samuel Bean, of Saco, York County, Maine, died July 19, 1903. In the death of Mr. Bean the Association is called to mourn the loss of a worthy member, the home a kind husband, the community a useful citizen, ever ready to do everything in his power to promote morality and virtue in the political, business and social life of the region in which he lived.

As a minister of Christ he served in all humility of mind, and kept nothing back that was profitable unto his people. In presenting moral truth he so clothed warning and reproof in the garments of God's love to humanity, that they became acceptable to all.

He was born in Suffield, Sherbrook County, in the Province of Quebec, in the year 1860. His parents were Levi and Clarissa (Taylor) Bean. Of his line of descent from our early ancestor to his father nothing has been learned except that he once informed, the writer that he was descended from John Bean, the immigrant, who, settled in Exeter, N. H., in the year about 1660.

God hath hidden from us this knowledge, as he did a knowledge of the parentage of the Priest of Salem; also, as the Priest of Salem brought to the patriarch God's blessing, so our brother hath brought to his fellow citizens a promise of God's love to humanity.

Mr. Bean studied at Green Mountain Seminary, Waterbury, Vt., as also at Nichols' Latin School and the Cobb Divinity School Lewiston, Me. Physical weakness soon compelled him to give up his studies in these schools, and to pursue them at his home; and to "look through Nature up to Nature's God."

His labors as a minister of Christ were in the Province of Quebec, and in the State of Maine. His last pastorate being with the First Parish Congregational Church, in Saco, Maine. Here by his devotion to the Master's cause, he won the friendship and love, not only of the members of his parish, but the admiration and respect of the whole community. He fell early in life and through suffering and devotion to duty hath become immortal. As a woman gathers up her jewels, so God in his goodness gathers up his saints, and takes them home to immortal life.

Thus has our brother passed away, "famed for mildness, peace and prayer." May we all as a generation imitate his virtues; and by labors of loving service, for humanity, home and country, lay hold on immortality, and thus fulfil the aspirations for his posterity of our honored ancestor who dared and suffered for the sake of those to come after.

The following is a part of the report of the Biddeford Record of the funeral of our brother: "Surrounded by friends and acquaintances in large numbers gathered to pay the last tribute of respect, the funeral of Rev. Leroy S. Bean, the beloved pastor of the First Parish Church, was held to-day.

"The church was filled with members, parishioners, prominent citizens and pastors of churches in the two cities, Saco and Biddeford, and prominent men who held the deceased in high esteem. The members of the Portland Ministers' Club attended in a body.

"The Rev. William Reynolds conducted the service, and spoke of the noble life of the pastor. Ex-Mayor James O. Bradbury also made an address, in which he spoke of the many noble qualities of the deceased, and extended the sympathy of the community to the friends and relatives of our brother."

J. B.

Hon. Josiah Jones Beane was born at Weeds' Mills, Sandwich, N. H., January 14, 1821. He was the fifth child of Captain Josiah and Olive (Sanborn) Beane.

When he was nine years of age the family moved to Great Falls, N. H., and he remained there until he was eighteen, when he came to Gilmanton, and engaged as clerk in the store of his brother-in-law, A. S. Eastman. Part of the time after that he was in the store, and part of the time he attended school at the Academy.

In 1846, February 4, he married Miss H. E. Bradley, of Dracut, Mass., and lived about a year at Factory Village, now Belmont, when he moved to Gilmanton, N. H., and remained there the rest of his life. Upon his twenty-sixth birthday his oldest daughter was born, making a double birthday in the family.

In 1851 he became Secretary of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

In 1858 he bought the homestead where the family still reside.

In January last he and his wife attended the Communion Service of the Congregational Church of which they had long been members. February 4, being the fifty-seventh anniversary of their marriage.

The 27th of February he was confined to his room with pneumonia, and after six days, on the 4th of March, he passed quietly away. He is laid to rest beside his father, mother and sisters in Beechgrove Cemetery, at the foot of Picket Hill, at Gilmanton.

In so short a sketch it is impossible to give more than an outline of a long and useful life, full of an interest in his neighbors, and readiness to help them when needed in every possible way.

Lilla Adams Stott, eldest daughter of Hon. Charles A. and Mary Elizabeth (Bean) Stott, of Lowell, who was born July 24, 1858, and died at home in Lowell, Mass., December 13, 1902, was an early and deeply interested member of the Association. Her ancestors were of the Gilmanton branch, her grandfather being George W., her great grandfather, Elkanah. A local newspaper contained the following notice of her, which all who knew her would warmly endorse :

"In the death of Miss Lilla Stott, which occurred after a short illness, we are called upon to mourn the loss of one who was greatly endeared to her family and friends, by her sweet, unselfish nature, bearing the heavy burden of the illness of many years, most uncomplainingly.

"She loved nature and was greatly interested in bird-life, quickly recognizing the different notes of our native songsters as she sought their haunts.

"Flowers freely blossomed under her gentle, loving care, for she was in touch with all that is beautiful in life.

"Hers was a quiet, retiring nature, full of love and sympathy for others, a spirit of self-sacrifice influencing her life.

"'Who in life's battle firm doth stand
Shall bear hope's tender blossoms
Into the silent land.'"

Cut off suddenly, as she was, in the prime of life, her loss fell as a heavy blow upon a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Her name and character will remain ever cherished, as gracious memories in this Association of which she was an active and zealous member.

John Harrison Bean, son of David and Sally (Lucy) Bean, was born at "The Island," Candia, N. H., October 24, 1831. His descent is John[1], Daniel[2], Daniel[3], David[4], Abraham[5], David[6]. He was educated in the public schools of his town and at the Military Gymnasium of Pembroke, and at Atkinson Academy. He married Sally Ann, daughter of Samuel and Sally Preble, of York, Me., and after several years at the old home, lived successively in West Newbury, Everett and at Ayer's Village in Haverhill, Mass., where he died. He alternated the vocations of farmer and merchant. He was a man of intelligence and moral integrity, quiet and modest in his ways, and left a good name behind him.

His children were Jay Carroll, (deceased), Dummer Bragdon, Abbie Matilda, and Emma Lucy, all of Haverhill, and Fred Preble, of San Pedro Sula, Honduras, C. A.

The Vice President-presiding, Rev. Dr. S. C. Beane, then gave the following tender appreciation and fitting sketch of, and eulogy upon the late President, Hon. Josiah Hayden Drummond.

The death of our President, Hon. Josiah Hayden Drummond, LL.D., on the 25th of October, 1902, is a sad loss and grief to every member of our Association. His versatile mental endowments, his executive ability of a superlative degree, and his reputation as the embodiment of the highest moral and manly worth, do not compass the entire character of our lamented friend. He was still greatest as a man to be loved and warmly confided in, and as a magnetic personality that drew us, every one, almost as near to him as if he had been our father or brother.

Josiah Hayden Drummond had his birth in Winslow, Me., August 30, 1827, and lived to pass his seventy-fifth birthday. His first American ancestor of the name was Alexander, who settled in Georgetown, Me., the line being: Alexander[1], Patrick[2], John[3], John[4], Clark[5], Josiah Hayden[6].

He was educated in the district schools, at Vassalboro Academy, and at Waterville, now Colby, College, taking his A.B. when less than nineteen years old.

Teaching in college winter vacations was the rule, but Josiah being too young for that dignified function, in his long freshman vacation he assisted his father at logging in the Maine woods.

The next two winters he taught a district school, and during his long senior vacation he was principal of China, Me., Academy. Still teaching for two years after graduation, he then entered the law office of Boutelle and Noyes at Waterville, and interrupted by one term of teaching, continued his studies until admitted to the bar in October, 1850. After a business trip to California, in the summer of 1851, he became the law partner of Mr. Noyes, Mr. Boutelle having retired to enter other business. His marriage to our kinswoman, Elzada Rollins Bean, had taken place December 10, 1850.

The descent of Mrs. Drummond from our first ancestor in America is John[1], James[2], Jeremiah[3], Jonathan[4], Phineas[5], Benjamin Wadleigh[6], Elzada Rollins[7]. Her ancestor James[2] lived in Kingston and Brentwood, N. H. Jeremiah[3] bought a large tract of land in Candia and Deerfield, and in the latter town he settled and passed the remainder of his life. Jonathan[4] resided in Candia, as, in early life, did his son Phineas[5]. In Candia, Benjamin Wadleigh[6] was born, who, when a child of four years, migrated with his parents to Montville, Me., and there his daughter Elzada Rollins[7] was born.

Mr. Drummond helped organize the Republican party in 1855, and was a member of the Maine House of Representatives in 1857, being chosen again, and elected Speaker in 1858. The next year he was a member of the State Senate, but during his official term resigned his seat to accept the office of Attorney General of the State, holding the position two years, when he declined further service. He had now become a resident and lawyer of Portland, which city he afterward represented in the legislature, and again became presiding officer.

Although he was often called "Judge," he never occupied a seat upon any judicial bench, although quietly in his office, and in friendly ways, he had doubtless adjudicated more differences than many a judge upon the bench.

Mr. Drummond, always alive to public affairs, had little desire for public position, preferring to render his service to the people in unofficial ways. He was more than once spoken of for Governor, and for member of the National House and Senate, and had he desired he could, without question, have been chosen to either of these positions, and few men in either of them have rendered more able or valuable service than he would have done. He had also repeatedly been urged to accept a place on the Supreme Bench of Maine.

His law office, his family, his community, his Masonic Brotherhood, his mathematical studies—wherein he was the equal of many a university professor,—his antiquarian and genealogical researches, and his manhood citizenship without office or title, were far more congenial to him, and probably in no other ways could he have been more useful to the world.

As attorney for the Maine Central Railroad for fifty-one years, and director of the Union Mutual Life Insurance Company for twenty-six years, his wisdom and devotion were invaluable. The directors of the latter institution have put on record this memorial of him: "Of Mr. Drummond's helpfulness to the Union Mutual it is difficult to write in measured terms, so unlimited were his hopes and efforts in its behalf. His ambition, his thought, his love, for the past twenty-six years, have been unsparingly given to advance its welfare. . . . In character and attainments he was prominent among his fellow-men. As a lawyer he was not only familiar with all legal questions likely to arise concerning life insurance, but railroads as well; as a mathematician intricate problems were his delight; as a genealogist he was happy in tracing family antecedents; as a Free Mason he was an authority consulted by members in all parts of the world; and in every one of these widely separated interests, he was thoroughly, not superficially, informed."

Mr. Drummond was at his best and happiest when consulted in his office concerning some matter where the personal rights and just interests of some helpless or uninfluential person were involved.

Mr. Drummond was loyal to his college Alma Mater, and for some years, ending with his death, was President of the Board of Trustees. Students of that period have told me that the choicest share of their love was given to "Father Drummond."

For more than a year our friend had struggled manfully against disease. On the last day he was walking on Congress Street, bent on official errands, when, near the Longfellow place, he was seen to fall, and shortly came the end.

From the First Unitarian Church in Portland, within the space of a few weeks, occurred the funerals of the illustrious statesman Thomas B. Reed, the eminent jurist Nathan Webb, and, not least of the three, our own Josiah H. Drummond.

Besides the widow, there survive three children, Josiah Hayden, Miss Myra Lucetta, and Mrs. Wilford G. Chapman, to inherit the wealth of character and of memory which their father has bequeathed to them.

The following poem by our poetess-member par excellence, Mrs. Alice Bean Lodge, of Gilmanton, was effectively read by Mr. Converse Chellis of Dartmouth College:

Once more the bugle's silver note
Rings out upon the summer air,
From North to South, from East to West,
It sounds reveille loud and clear—
I bid you welcome to our State,
Its rocks and hills, its woods and streams,
Its mornings, when the rising sun
Fills all the air with golden gleams.
When first to me the message came,
I said, "They bid me sing and pray,
I cannot pray in Highland tongue,
I cannot sing on Highland brae."
We miss a footstep in the hall,
Beside me stands an empty chair,
And oftentimes the tears will fall
Because we know he is not there—
And when the evening shadows fall,
We light the fire upon the hearth
And talk of all his kindly care,
Remembering his love and worth—

And there are others that we miss
Who have been with us in the past,
Their memories will be kept green
As long as life itself shall last—
Our fathers did their duty well,
From day to day until the end;
Honor and reverence is their due,
Tho' grief for them our hearts may rend;
Because their work on earth is done,
We should not falter by the way,
But strive to help each other more
While waiting for eternal day.
Some have a sky that's always bright,
And gentle zephyrs round them play,
Their bark floats over fair lagoons
And lotus flowers bloom all the way;
While others bear a fiery cross
Which they accept with grief and tears,
A symbol of the pain and loss
They carry thro' the weary years.
To each a special work is given,
Our way we may not always choose,
But duty's path is straight and plain
Whatever we may win or lose—
Close up the ranks, and bear aloft
The standard for the true and right;
Our banner with the uplifted arm
Must not be missing in the fight—
And if St. Woden's heart of old
Could aught foretell of weal or woe,
To mine be inspiration given
To help some soul before I go.
Last winter when the skies were drear,
One came and said beside my chair,
"Because I know you sit and sing,
It helps me my own cross to bear."
"The Path of Light" still spans the sky
The darkest hour precedes the dawn;
And out of sorrow and of pain
Courage and patience may be born.
The wrong I wish I had not done,
The places where I made mistake,
Are in the past beyond recall
Altho' for them my heart should break—
But when the midnight hours are long
And all around is hushed to rest,
This future that we all must meet
Awakes strange longings in my breast—

I see a pale face crowned with thorns,
With eyes where love and pity blend,
And hear a low voice, sweet and clear,
"Fear not, for I will be your friend"—
And tho' the world seems going away,
Emmanuel's land is just before;
For every one who trusts in Him
The way is plain, the welcome sure—
The song we sing will be so sweet
Angels will stand in mute amaze
"To Christ who loved us and redeemed,
Be everlasting love and praise."

ALICE BEANE LODGE.

GILMANTON, N. H.

Vice President Azel Ames, M. D., of Wakefield, Mass., who was expected to make an extended address, being unavoidably prevented from attending by illness in his family, sent a letter that was next in interest to the spoken word it was hoped to hear.

At mid-day a sumptuous dinner was served the Association at the Eagle Hotel. On reassembling the report of the nominating committee was submitted and officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows:—

President: Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D.D., Newburyport, Mass.

Vice Presidents: John A. Bean, Haverhill, Mass.; Robert H. Bean, Boston, Mass.; Cotton W. Bean, New York City; Azel Ames, M. D., Wakefield, Mass.; Mrs. Helen D. Fillebrown, Boston, Mass.; Samuel Bean, Lebanon, N. H.; Hon. George F. A. Beane, Olneyville, R. I.; Mrs. Lizzie M. Stockwell, Lyndonville, Vt.; Rufus E. Bean, Franklin, N. H.

Secretary: Hon. Dearborn G. Bean, East Wilton, Me.

Assistant Secretary: Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.

Treasurer: Jacob Bean, Boston.

Executive Committee: The President and Secretary ex officis; Newell W. Beane, M. D., Bedford, Mass.; Capt. Edward W. Bean, Arlington, Mass.; Willie Joseph Bean, Boston, Mass.; Eliphalet Cloutman, Stoneham, Mass.; Joseph W. Bean, West Derry, N. H.; Mrs. Hiram H. Bean, Boston, Mass.; Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.; Mrs. Annie D. Davis, Raymond, N. H.; Miss Mary L. Chellis, Meriden, N. H.; Miss Clara Fox Bean, Gilmanton, N. H.; Fred Bean, Warner, N. H.

It was voted that arrangements for continuing the genealogical work which had been carried on by the late president and others be placed in the hands of the following Committee on Genealogies: President and Secretary, ex officio; Jacob Bean, Boston; Mrs. Helen D. Fillebrown, Boston; Hon. George F. Bean, Woburn, Mass.; Newell W. Beane, M. D., Bedford, Mass.; Mrs. Lizzie M. (Bean) Stockwell, Lyndonville, Vt.

Remarks were made concerning the interests of the Association, by Fred Bean of Warner, N. H., Hon. W. Channing Harriman, and other members.

The place of the next meeting of the Association was left to the Executive Committee, and adjournment followed.

EIGHTH REUNION

JOHN BEAN OF EXETER.

The eighth reunion of The John Bean Association was held Friday, September 9, 1904, at Newburyport, Mass. A pleasant reception was held by the officers at the Wolfe Tavern, the previous evening.

The Association met in the delightful old church (built in 1801), of the first religious society of that city, and was called to order at 10 o'clock by the President, Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D. D., of Newburyport. A word of greeting was given by the President. Opening prayer was offered by Rev. S. C. Beane, Jr., of Rutherford, N. J. There were songs by Mrs. Hattie Lane Walker, of Haverhill, Mass., of the Bean kindred, and the assembly, later, joined in singing "Old Lang Syne." About sixty members of the Association were present.

Hon. Dearborn G. Bean, Secretary of the Association, and Mr. Frank Chase Bean, Assistant Secretary, both being unavoidably absent, Mr. Rufus E. Bean, of Franklin, N. H., was appointed Secretary pro tem. The Secretary pro tem read many letters of regret from members unable to be present.

Obituary notices were read of several members of the Association, or of the Bean family recently deceased, including the following:

Joseph Franklin Beane, of Livonia, Minnesota, son of Joseph and Betsey (Gilman) Beane, was born at Beans' Island, Candia, N. H., July 26, 1826, and was the great grandson of David, the original settler of that locality. Educated at the common schools and at the Gymnasium at Pembroke, he early settled in Minnesota, and died in May of the present year (1904), at Livonia, in that State, where he had long been a prominent citizen. As farmer, hotel-keeper, town officer and postmaster, he was well known in the surrounding region as a man of absolute integrity, large intelligence and valuable judgment. His wife, a daughter of the late Rev. Nathaniel Harvey, of Wisconsin; a son, Irving, and a daughter, Ina, survive him at the family homestead. His early associates in New Hampshire remember him as a youth of brilliant and unbounded humor.

Mrs. Harriet Gray Beane, wife of Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D. D., of Newburyport, (President of the Association), and daughter of the late Ephraim Gray, of Salem, Mass., died at Hanover, N. H., August 23, 1904. Together with her husband, two children survive her; Rev. Samuel Collins Beane, Jr., of Rutherford, N. J., and Miss Elizabeth S. Beane, of Newburyport.

A Newburyport journal said of her at the time of her demise, which was felt as a severe loss by the entire community and circle of her acquaintance: "Loveable was the word one instinctively applied to her; but to know her was to find strength as truly an element of her character as sweetness. Her strength made her a wise friend, and her unfailing tact was equal to individual needs and circumstances. She incited others to the 'scorn of miserable aims that end in self.' She was prominent in the Newburyport Woman's Club, socially and officially, and was active in many of the best enterprises of the city. One of her husband's former parishioners, a prominent New Hampshire lady, bears testimony: 'She did for me more than any woman that ever lived, and my love and gratitude are hers forever.'"

Nathan Bean Prescott, (son of John and Betsey Dudley (Bean) Prescott), was born in Gilmanton, N. H., August 15, 1827. He married November 24, 1863, Maria Hawley Beardsley, of Munroe, Ct., (daughter of Harry Beardsley, M. D., of Painesville, Ohio). He was for many years the head of the Jamaica Pond Ice Company, having been in company with Albert Palmer, late Mayor of Boston, in the same enterprise, at an earlier date.

For a considerable time Mr. Prescott was chairman of the Board of Selectmen of West Roxbury, Mass. He afterwards moved to Derry, N. H., and he represented that town in the New Hampshire legislature where he was a valued and conspicuous member. He was also a Trustee of Pinkerton Academy at Derry. Mr. Prescott died at Hot Springs, Ark., February 10, 1904, and his wife died but a few days later, in Boston, on her way home. Mr. Prescott was not only one of the wealthy men of his community, but was greatly esteemed for his integrity, good judgment and public spirit. He is not recorded as a member of this Association though two of his sisters are, and he had a strong interest in family associations and ties.

Mention was also made of the death of WILLIAM HOWE BEAN, son of Stephen S. Bean, who died in Kansas City, a retired merchant, August 14, 1904, aged 61; and of JAMES P. BEAN, who died at Marion, Ill., October 1, 1903.

On motion of Dr. Azel Ames, it was voted to appoint a Committee on Necrology and the chair appointed as that committee, Azel Ames, M. D., of Wakefield, Mass., John Lane, of Haverhill, Mass., and Rufus E. Bean of Franklin Falls, N. H.

On motion a committee to nominate officers for the ensuing year was appointed by the chair:

The principal address of the day was given by Azel Ames, M. D., of Wakefield, Mass., and was one of great value to the work of the Association, though the speaker has thought it not of importance enough for publication here, even in abstract.

At noon a recess was taken and some ninety members took trolley transit to the Plum Island Hotel, close to the ocean, where the famous fish dinner of that locality was enjoyed. The Association was called to order at the tables. The Committee on Nominations reported, and the Association unanimously elected, the following as its officers and committees for the year to come:

President: Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D. D., Newburyport, Mass.

Vice Presidents: John A. Bean, Haverhill, Mass.; Robert H. Bean, Boston; Cotton W. Beane, New York; Azel Ames, M. D., Wakefield, Mass.; Mrs. Helen D. Fillebrown, Boston; Samuel Bean, Lebanon, N. H.; Hon. George F. A. Beane, Olneyville, R. I.; Mrs. Lizzie M. Stockwell, Lyndonville, Vt.; Rufus E. Bean, Franklin Falls, N. H., and Hon. George F. Bean, Woburn, Mass.

Honorary Secretary for Life: Hon. Dearborn G. Bean, East Wilton, Me.

Secretary: Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.

Treasurer: Jacob Bean, Boston.

Executive Committee: Newell W. Beane, M. D., Bedford, Mass.; Capt. E. D. Bean, Arlington, Mass.; Willie J. Bean, Boston; Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.; Joseph W. Bean, West Derry, N. H.; Eliphalet Cloutman, Stoneham, Mass.; Mrs. Hiram H. Bean, Boston; Mrs. Annie D. Davis, Raymond, N. H.; Miss Mary L. Chellis, Meriden, N. H.; Miss Clara Fox Bean, Gilmanton, N. H. and Fred Bean, Warner, N. H.

Committee on Genealogy: President and Secretary, ex officis; Jacob Bean, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Helen D. Fillebrown, Boston, Mass.; Hon. George F. Bean, Woburn, Mass.; Newell W. Beane, M. D., Bedford, Mass.; Mrs. Lizzie M. (Bean) Stockwell, Lyndonville, Vt.

After the transaction of minor business the Association adjourned subject to the call of the Executive Committee.

NINTH REUNION

JOHN BEAN OF EXETER.

The ninth reunion of the members of the John Bean Association and their kinsfolk was held at West Derry, N. H., Thursday, September 7, 1905. A well attended and very enjoyable reception and social gathering of members occurred the evening previous at Hotel Bradford.

The session of the Association held in the very pretty and convenient St. Luke's Methodist Church, by the courtesy of its members, was called to order at 10 o'clock by the President, Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D. D.

After singing by Mrs. Edmund B. Choate of Lawrence, prayer was offered by Rev. William Thompson, pastor of St. Luke's.

Mr. Joseph W. Bean of Derry, warmly and happily welcomed the Association in the following felicitous address:

Mr. President and Members of the John Bean Association: Inasmuch as you have assembled here to-day at the request and invitation of myself, it is no more than proper that I should at this time extend to you a hearty welcome.

Next to the divine instinct of religion, the love of country and of family is the most holy. Blood is the first and closest bond of life, endearing us not only to our brethren but to the generous soil which is our common inheritance. It has been correctly remarked that the family is the first state. Bonds of union are established when we share the same belief, worship at the same altars, and when we meet to enjoy the fellowship of brothers and sisters of one common ancestry.

The family of Bean, from whom we are all descended, settling in our neighboring town of Exeter nearly two hundred and fifty years ago, was a branch of the Anglo-Saxon race, and as members of this family we can so feel and act as to strengthen the ties of a common lineage. Surrounded as we are in America by a mixed population, we sometimes almost lose our identity. But at other times we instinctively turn to the fountain-head of our origin, and feel at once the race from which we came. It is for the purpose of keeping fresh in our minds our ancestry, who in the hour of oppression left their native country and planted their feet upon the soil of the new world, and here out of a primeval forest carved out a home for those who were to come after them and enjoy the fruits of their labors and sacrifices, that we meet to-day.

The descendants of the early Beans have at all times held to the characteristics of their forefathers. They believe in fair play; they are tolerant of the religious opinions of others. While we may not be able to call to our minds to-day any one of our family who has risen far above the average of the human family, we can console ourselves that there has been none, so far as we can learn, who has so acted as to bring a blush of shame to us who bear the name of Bean. As we trace our ancestry back to the freedom-loving and patriotic member who settled in America and gave to this country so many descendants, scattered all over the land, of that number we are pleased to welcome so many of you to this beautiful and prosperous town of Derry.

We cannot shut out from our hearts the feelings which will rise and swell at the mention of the early members of our family. The appeals come with irresistible power to every one of us present here to-day. We will not keep out of sight any of the endeared associations which cluster around such family gatherings as this we are enjoying, of the noble and honored family of Bean.

I am simply as one of the descendants of the John Bean who first settled in this country, to extend the welcome, not forgetting that "to show honor to others is more praiseworthy than to be honored oneself." You do me honor by coming to this town to hold your annual gathering, and when you depart for your several homes, may you carry with you pleasant recollections of the meeting at Derry in 1905; and may the pleasure you enjoy this day be such that it may be imparted to others of our family, so that at each annual meeting new faces may be met, and new acquaintances may be formed to endure so long as life shall last.

To this address the President replied in a few hearty well-chosen words, expressing in behalf of all, the pleasure all enjoyed in being so cordially welcomed as we had been to this town of beauty and honorable traditions. He remarked that the Scotch Irish emigration, coming here in the early seventies, created in this their new Londonderry, some excellent institutions, and established an excellent order of society, while their successors far and near have been distinguished for their sturdy industry, progressive and inventive spirit, and unusual mental enlightenment. For many years Derry has been an academic town known and honored throughout the country. It delights our eyes to-day, to see its increase in population and in good industrial activities.

We are in dear old Rockingham county, too, which just at present is of more interest to mankind at large, and with more eyes anxiously and expectantly centered upon it, than any other county or district on the globe. Let us hope that from what is doing this very day and hour in our own Portsmouth, a peace may be established between Russia and Japan which shall endure till wars shall be no more on earth.

To our chief welcomer, to all who living nearby press their hands in ours to-day, and to the church which bids us feel at home in its attractive and homelike edifice, our appreciation flows in full current.

A committee on the nomination of officers for the next year, was on motion appointed, consisting of Hiram H. Bean, Herman L. Bean, Mrs. Colby Lamb, Mrs. J. B. Aman, Mrs. C. H. Flanders, and Hon. George F. A. Bean.

Letters of regret at their inability to be present were read from the Treasurer, Mr. Jacob Bean, of Boston; John C. Chase, Esq., of Derry, President of the Chase Association; Mr. George F. Bean, and others.

A very pleasing reading was given by a young miss, Helen Giles, of Derry, which was cordially received.

The reports of the Secretary, Mr. Frank Chase Bean, and of the Treasurer, were read and accepted, and on motion, the Secretary was made Assistant Treasurer.

Dr. Azel Ames for the Committee on Necrology presented the following carefully elaborated report of the committee drawn by its chairman, comprising obituaries of a considerable number of the members of the Association and of the Bean family who have deceased within comparatively recent time, it being desired and intended hereby to include mention of all known deaths in the name of Bean, occurring in the past few years, not previously included in obituary notices of the Association.

THE REPORT OF THE

COMMITTEE ON NECROLOGY

OF THE JOHN BEAN ASSOCIATION

FOR THE YEAR 1904-05.

Mr. President and Friends:—

The Committee on Necrology created by the Association at the last annual meeting, as a Standing Committee, herein submits its first report:

Necessarily the communications of the members of the committee with each other, with the officers and members of the Association, and with others have been chiefly by mail and hardly more could be reasonably expected from it in the first year of its existence, than that it should put into shape and use the simple means and methods by which the desired information may be gathered and brought into form.

It goes without saying that the objects of the committee's efforts are two fold, viz.:—to learn, as fully as practicable, of the deaths of any of the Bean name—especially of members of this Association—which anywhere occur, and to gather such facts in regard to those deceased, —their lives, characters, lineages and achievements, as will enable the committee to make, annually, fitting report concerning them, to the Association. Incidentally, it is probable that in its efforts, much data will be acquired which may later prove of service to the Genealogical Committee in its distinctive work.

Your committee avails itself of this opportunity to say, that it is very desirable that each member of the Association shall feel charged with the duty of securing and forwarding, as promptly as possible, to the Chairman of the committee, or to the Secretary of the Association, for the committee, information as to the death of any person of the name of Bean occurring within his knowledge, together with newspaper notices, etc., whenever available, that further inquiry may be made by the committee and all serviceable data be acquired and suitably presented to the Association.

A postal card or a newspaper clipping making such death announcement, will sufficiently apprize the committee, with but very little trouble to the sender, and enable the sending of proper blanks to relatives for further information, so that the desired facts as to those of our kith and kin who have departed may be duly made known to the Association at its next annual meeting, that thereby respectful mention and tribute may be given our kindred dead.

Incidentally it may be said that it is desirable, in each case, to state the name of the deceased as fully as possible, the date and place of death, the late residence and the name and address of any one known who can supply further information. Newspaper obituary notices are especially helpful. A blank has been prepared by the committee and sent by the Secretary to most of the members, so arranged as to permit the entry upon it of very full data, which when filled may be sent, as mentioned, either to the Chairman of the Committee on Necrology or to the Secretary of the Association. These blanks—as will be seen on examination of their printed matter—are intended to be used only to report facts as to persons of the Bean name who have deceased within the knowledge of members (and others who receive them), and are not for the purpose of gathering general facts as to living members, as some have supposed.

The latter work is distinctly the field and function of the Genealogical Committee with which the Committee on Necrology desires in no way to interfere.

This committee desires to hereby particularly request the fullest possible assistance and coöperation of all the members, in this laudable work. It will cordially appreciate this assistance and welcome suggestions.

We shall doubtless all agree that the least—as it is also the last—service we can render to those of our name and kindred, when they pass from us "into the beyond," is to pay them the small tribute of kindly mention among ourselves, in our annual family gathering. It ought to be,—it is believed it will be,—the careful thought, purpose and effort of each one of us henceforward, to aid and promote this feature of our organization.

THE NECROLOGY.

In considering the scope and features of this, its first report, your committee has assumed that the Association in creating the committee desired, primarily, to learn,—by the simplest, easiest, authentic methods—who of its members had died since its last meeting; second, who of the name of Bean, not members, had died anywhere in the United States in the same period, and third, something of the personality, character and life-work of each of those deceased.

Your committee has hence grouped the data it has been able, under existing unfavorable conditions, to gather, upon this basis, placing first in order of mention those of its members who have died, and second, those of the name at large, giving as to each, so far as practicable, under the obvious limitations, such obituary mention as the ascertained facts seemed to warrant. Doubtless many errors exist in the sketches of those herein mentioned, and the committee earnestly invites correction of any such as may appear.

As this is the first report of its kind made to the Association, by a committee constituted for the purpose, it has been thought well that it should include mention of a very few whose deaths occurred prior to the last meeting, that they might not fail of rightful remembrance. It has also been thought well to arrange the data acquired, in the chronological order of the occurrence of deaths (except as to officers of the Association) in each of its two several divisions.

DEATHS OF MEMBERS OF THE JOHN BEAN ASSOCIATION.

Hon. Dearborn Gorham Bean. Our Association met, early in the year, a sad and irreparable loss—second only in importance to that of our late beloved President, Mr. Drummond—in the not unexpected death of our Honorary Secretary, long our efficient active Secretary, Hon. Dearborn Gorham Bean, of East Wilton, Me., who passed away Tuesday evening, April 18, 1905, at the age of seventy-one years, after a life full of highly useful and honorable activities. Current press notices of him record that Mr. Bean was for many years one of the most active and best known citizens in Franklin county, and had a large acquaintance throughout the State and in various parts of the country. He was the second son of the late Dearborn and Lovina (Butterfield) Bean, and was born on the homestead farm near Bean's Corner, Jay, Me., March 24, 1834.

His youth was well employed in farm labor and attending school, where he was an apt pupil and became possessed of a good English education and was also quite proficient in surveying. For several winters Mr. Bean taught the village schools at East Wilton, Dixfield and Jay with much success, at this early age manifesting the executive ability and the understanding of human nature which were noticeable traits in his life throughout. For five years, beginning in 1856, Mr. Bean was a traveling salesman for the late Calvin Keyes, who had established the scythe works at East Wilton. In company with Sewall Brown, Mr. Bean successfully operated these works for two years in the early sixties. From 1864 to 1867 he was selling agent for S. P. Bradbury's monumental works at Bangor. From 1869 to 1874 he was in the employ of Hiram Holt & Co., at East Wilton. In the absence of Mr. Holt he conducted the entire business for three years, acquiring for the firm the patents of the Lightning hay knife, whose manufacture brought so much prosperity to the firm and to the village of East Wilton.

Mr. Bean, since 1874, had held many public offices, among them that of State inspector of jails and prisons for a long period of time. In 1889–91 he was a member of the State Valuation Committee. He was for ten years a member of the Republican State Committee, and was intimately associated with Hon. Messrs. Blaine, Reed, Dingley and Hamlin and other eminent men. His term of service included the times of the Greenback craze and the "count out." In those trying days he proved himself a wise, energetic and efficient manager, and did much to stem the tide of folly and prejudice which for a while seemed likely to sweep the State.

Mr. Bean also held many town offices, and in many public and private ways worked faithfully to promote the welfare of his town and State. He was interested in the prosecution of the war and did what he could to aid the Union cause, but physical disability prevented his enlistment.

Mr. Bean was not a church member, but he was actively interested in the support of church services, and no man did more than he for the erection of the church at Bean's Corner, and the rebuilding of the church at East Wilton. He was also interested in all good causes, and a helpful, genial neighbor, a remarkably hospitable, cordial friend.

Mr. Bean was a member of Wilton Lodge, No. 156, F. & A. M., of Wilton; Franklin Chapter, No. 44, R. A. M., and Pilgrim Commandery, No. 19, K. T., of Farmington. He was also for a number of years previous to his death a greatly interested member of the Bean Family Association. In connection with the late Hon. Josiah H. Drummond of Portland, he partially compiled the Genealogy of the Bean Family, and contributed liberally towards its partial publication.

What he was as one of the earliest and most ardent members and promoters of this Association, and how much it and all of the Bean lineage, will ever stand indebted to his labors, those of you who have known him longest and best in this connection, can abundantly testify. No words are adequate to express the real measure of loss that falls upon an Association like this when such lives and labors as these of our beloved friend cease.

Mr. Bean married, May 16, 1858, Rose Ann, daughter of the late Franklin and Rose Ann Winslow, of North Jay, Me., a lady of much refinement and charming presence, and their spacious home was always open to relatives and friends. They had no children, but gave a father's and mother's love and care to a nephew, Prof. Franklin Winslow Johnson, now connected with Chicago University.

Mrs. Bean died some ten years since, and her sister, Mrs. E. W. Johnson, was an untiring and devoted attendant upon Mr. Bean in his declining years.

Funeral services of a scope and impressive character which indicated the high esteem in which Mr. Bean was held by all classes, and among a wide and varied acquaintance, was held at East Wilton on Friday, April 21, and he was laid to rest under the burial rites of his brother Masons in the Phillips tomb in East Wilton cemetery.

Dea. Joseph Weymouth Bean, (son of Jeremiah Bean, of Gilmanton, N. H.,) and of the line of Joshua[4], and for many years a resident of Manchester, N. H., but who had, just previous to his death, become a resident of Bedford, died at the latter place, Tuesday, March 13, 1904, by his own hand.

Born at Gilmanton, N. H., June 30, 1828, he was at the time of his death about seventy-five years of age. For more than twenty years he had been a deacon of the Free Baptist church of Manchester, and for forty-five years foreman in the blacksmith shop of the Manchester Mills, a position from which he had not long retired.

He was for a short time in the employ of the Blood Locomotive Works, and left them to enter the employ of the Manchester Corporation.

Weighing, as he did, about three hundred pounds, his figure was a familiar one on Manchester streets, and he enjoyed a wide circle of acquaintances. His record of long and faithful service with the Manchester Corporation is an exceptional one and he held the trust and confidence of his employers, the highest regard of his men, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He had a high reputation as a machinist of great ability, and skill.

It is understood that he had suffered for some time from attacks of despondency on account of his health and financial reverses, and took his life during unusual depression and consequent aberration.

He had but recently moved to Bedford, having purchased a small farm near the village and had planned to spend his declining years there.

He was twice married; first, to Sarah B. Freese, daughter of Deacon C. and Irene (Brown), who died April 4, 1894. He married, April 24, 1895, Mrs. Hannah Bernice (Doble), Dillingham, daughter of Phineas and Lucinda Wilbur (Downer) Doble, as his second wife, who survives him. He left, it is understood, no children of his own, but had a foster-daughter.

He was a member of Wildey Lodge, I. O. O. F., Patriarchs Militant, and during his long residence in Manchester he served his ward as representative, and as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention. He took a zealous interest in public affairs and was an ardent student of the problems of municipal and State government.

A good and honorable man in all the relations of life, his unhappy end is cause of universal sorrow among all who knew him. There can be no doubt that he has passed through the cloud that overcast his latter days and has emerged into the sunlight of a broader and better day.

He registered as a member of this Association at the Manchester meeting of 1898.

Manley Bean. Mr. Manley Bean, of Farmington, Me., (of the line of Joshua[4]), whose death occurred in that town, November 26, 1904, was born in Chesterville, Me., March 26, 1827, the son of Asa and Lovica (Lothrop) Bean. He was the eldest of a family of ten children, only three of whom survived him.

Mr. Bean was twice married; his first wife being Ann Maria Stevens, daughter of Samuel and Sarah Stevens, by whom he had three sons and two daughters—all of whom have died except one daughter, Ada Belle, who is now the wife of Hiram R. Hiscock and resides in Farmington, and is the mother of four children. His first wife died March 12, 1881, and on August 16, 1884, he married for his second wife, Mary Louise McIntosh, (widow of John McIntosh), of Farmington, who died June 26, 1904, just previous to his death.

Mr. Bean was a man of strong physique and a large laborer generally, enjoying good health except the last few years of his life, when he had severe trouble with his heart. His last sickness was a stroke of apoplexy.

He was a man of marked individuality, strong earnest purpose, boundless energy, conscientious, upright; ardent in the espousal of the right as he saw it; warmly attached to his town's and his church's interests, and to all good work. He was of a broad and liberal spirit, notwithstanding his strong preferences, and eminently practical in effort.

He was deeply interested in his kindred and family ties and early took a decided interest in the purposes of this Association, and followed its doings with zeal. He is registered as No. 360 of its recorded members.

He rests from his labors and his works do follow him. He will be greatly missed in the scenes and round of his wonted activities, where his deeply religious life and strict honesty were recognized as examples for all.

Mrs. Columbia (or Calla) Bean Ward, of Skowhegan, Me., died suddenly at her house in that town, December 31, 1904, at the age of seventy-six years, having been born in Readfield, Me., May 9, 1839, the daughter of Charles and Ruth (Fogg) Bean, of that place. She went to Skowhegan at the age of nineteen, and was married the following year, to Martin D. Ward, of that town, who died April 7, 1883. Of this union were three children, two daughters and a son, all of whom survive their mother.

Shortly after going to Skowhegan she became a member of the Island Avenue Congregational church, and in the more than fifty years which succeeded, prior to her death, was an earnest and devoted member and constant attendant on its services.

Her devotion to home and children were marked characteristics, yet she found time for outside work and broader interests; was active in church work; a charter member of the Skowhegan Woman's Club and an ardent promoter of its undertakings for many years.

Among her many friends she was accounted "a rare woman," amiable and kind to all, winning readily the respect and attachment of all who came to know her.

It was the natural event that with her strong love of home and kindred, coupled with her broad outlook upon humanity, she should take a keen interest in those of her name and kindred everywhere, and in the work of this Association, of which so many of her friends and relatives were active. She is registered as No. 308 of its membership participants.

Mrs. Edna Frances (Bean) Smith, (daughter of Constant Cook and Olive L. Bean in the line of David, of Sandwich) of West Barnstable, Mass., a member of this Association, died at West Barnstable, January 29, 1905. She was born at Scituate, R. I., March 13, 1846, and was hence in her sixtieth year at the time of her death. She was educated at Mount Holyoke Seminary, graduating there July 4, 1872. She soon began teaching and taught schools in North Scituate, Valley Falls and Providence, R. I., relinquishing teaching only upon her marriage.

She was a member of the North Scituate, (R. I.,) Congregational church, and later of the Union Congregational church at Providence.

Of an exceptionally amiable disposition she was notable for her unfailing kindness and her efforts to help others. Her warm interest in her kindred and in the family of her birthright and maiden name, prompted her interest in this Association and its purposes. Her membership dates from the Boston meeting of 1900, when she was of Valley Falls, R. I.

Her death will be felt as a great loss by all those who knew her in any walk of life.

Daniel Shepard Beane, farmer, of Candia Village, N. H., died there February 1, 1905, aged eighty-five years. He was the son of Daniel, and the grandson of Joseph Bean, one of the first settlers in Candia village, who built the first saw and grist mill there. Shepard Beane had an only brother, Bradley Beane, with whom he always lived, both of them having been born, lived and died, as had their father before them,—upon the old homestead established by their grandfather.

Shepard Beane, as he was best known in his region, was a prominent, able, and thrifty citizen of his community. He never married, while his brother Bradley married and had children and grandchildren ; yet the brothers were never separated in home or interests until death came between, and like Dickens' delightful "Cheeryble Brothers," always continued their mutual, unbroken interest in affairs and in each other, an example of brotherly attachment and unity rarely met with, but eloquent as to their dispositions and characters.

Mr. Beane was born November 5, 1823, and though in his eighty-sixth year, was, until a few years before his death, astute physically and mentally. His judgment, especially in the values of real estate, was much relied upon. His brother survives him and with a nephew, Mr. Charles E. Beane, lives upon the ancient homestead, one of the old Beane homesteads of abiding interest to the members of this Association, in whose doings Mr. Beane always took exceptional interest.

Elisha Bean, Jr., of Newbury, Mass., a member of this Association, died at his home, in that town, after a long illness, April 1, 1905, at the age of eighty. He was born in Newbury, and resided there the greater part of his life, but saw service in the Civil War in the 1st Mass. Heavy Artillery, and was an esteemed member of the regimental association of that organization.

He was long a member of Post 49, G. A. R., of Newburyport, and had held office in it. He was a Past Master of Quascoanguen Lodge, I. O. O. F., of that city, which he joined in 1848, making him one of its oldest members. He was a man of family, but had outlived most of them, a son, Mr. Wallace E. Bean, of Newbury, alone surviving him.

He was, as a man and a citizen, universally respected and beloved. He was present with us at the last meeting of the Association at Newburyport, and though in failing health, expressed his enjoyment of the occasion and his warm interest in the membership and welfare of the organization. A good man gone home.

Knowledge as follows has come to your committee of the deaths of individuals bearing the name of Bean not known to be members of this Association.

Major William H. Bean. Chief Commissary of the Department of the Missouri, United States Army, committed suicide by shooting himself at Omaha, Neb., March 17, 1904, apparently under aberration of mind from despondency due to his impending separation from his wife, as he was to leave at once under orders for duty in the Philippines.

Major Bean graduated at the United States Military Academy at West Point, July 1, 1882; had served as 2d Lieutenant in the 2d Cavalry, as 1st Lieutenant in the 8th, and then in the 2d Cavalry; was appointed Commissary of subsistence with the rank of Captain in July, 1900, and was commissioned a Major and Chief Commissary, July 22, 1902. His service had been wholly in the regular army, and covered a period of twenty-two years.

He was known as a competent, honorable and popular officer, and the manner and suddenness of his death fell as a severe blow to many friends. He left a wife, but had, it is understood, no children.

Hon. Emory Oliver Bean, of Readfield, Me., formerly Judge of of Probate Kennebec County, and the oldest practising lawyer of the Kennebec bar, died suddenly at his home in Readfield, December 13, 1904. He was born at Readfield, September 10, 1819, and hence at the time of his death was in his eighty-sixth year. Judge Bean was the second of five children of Oliver and Patience (Nickerson) Bean. He was educated in the public schools of his native town, at Kents' Hill and at Monmouth Academy.

Having a decided preference for the legal profession, he entered, soon after leaving school, the law office of Hon. Timothy O. Howe, (later Senator from Wisconsin and Postmaster General of the United States). In 1843 he was admitted to the bar and located in Hallowell, where he began practice with that eminent lawyer of Maine and Massachusetts, Hon. Henry W. Paine. The following year he returned to Readfield and formed a partnership with Mr. Howe, his preceptor, under the firm name of Howe & Bean, which continued until Mr. Howe removed to the West in 1848. Judge Bean continued alone in the same office for twenty-eight years, (and until joined by his son), building up a very extensive practice and a reputation for high ability and integrity which were the corner stones of his eminent success.

He married, October 8, 1844, Elizabeth Hunton, daughter of Col. John O. and Sally (Turner) Craig, of Readfield, of which union there were two sons, Nelson S., late of Malden, Mass., and Hon. Fred Emory, his father's partner. Mrs. Bean died January 22, 1892, and Judge Bean married some time later Mrs. Georgianna Caroline Nickerson, widow of H. Owen Nickerson of Readfield, and daughter of James and Sophronia (Clough) Packard, as his second wife.

He was in early life a member of the old Whig party, casting his first vote for Gen. William Henry Harrison in the "Tippecanoe and Tyler, too" campaign of 1840. On the decay of the Whig party he became a Democrat. In 1851 he was elected to the Legislature, and in 1856 was chosen State Senator. He was appointed by Governor Garcelon, in 1879, a Trustee of the Maine State College at Orono, in which capacity he served for seven years. In 1880 he was elected Judge of the Probate and Insolvency Court of Kennebec County, which office he filled with distinction.

He was an active member of the Universalist denomination, was early admitted to Masonry, and was for half a century a member of Lafayette Lodge in his native town.

His record as a lawyer is exceptional, and his career as such was, in the highest degree, honorable and useful. As a Judge of Probate his decisions were never overruled.

A gentleman of the old school, he was warm-hearted, liberal and delightfully courteous. He served well his day and generation and closed, "in harness," at an advanced age, a well-rounded life that reflects honor upon himself, his country and the name of Bean.

His life and work have been finely sketched by our late Honorary Secretary.

William G. Bean, formerly Superintendent of the Southern Division of the B. & M. R. R. System, and a resident of Winchester, Mass., died at his summer residence in Brunswick, Me., June 29, 1905, at the age of forty-four.

Mr. Bean was born at Davenport, Iowa, October 20, 1861, the son of John P. and Elizabeth Bean. He received his early education in the public schools there, and entered Knox College, at Galesburg, Ill., later moving to New Hampshire, where he entered Dartmouth College, graduating with the class of 1883. During 1882-3, he worked at civil engineering at Olcott Falls, Vt., and after his graduation from college, he entered the employ of the St. Johnsbury & Lake Champlain Railroad, remaining with this company until 1886, when he entered the service of the Boston & Lowell Railroad, on the White Mountain Division, as chief clerk to the superintendent. From here he went to the Concord & Montreal R. R., being at the time, the youngest man in New England holding so responsible a position in railroad work. At the leasing of the Concord & Montreal to the Boston & Maine R. R., in 1895, he was appointed Assistant Superintendent of the Southern Division of the B. & M. System, and the last of that year became Superintendent, which position he maintained until May, 1905, when ill health forced him to resign.

He was a member of William Parkman Lodge, F. & A. M., Woburn Royal Arch Chapter, Woburn Council, R. & S. M., and DeMolay Commandery, K. T. He was also a member of the Calumet and Winchester clubs, and of many other organizations, and was prominent in the social affairs of his town. He leaves a widow and one son.

Mr. Bean's funeral was very largely attended, many of the officials of the B. & M. R. R., and representative men of other railroads, being present, beside college mates and the people of his community, with all of whom he was very popular.

He was a man of strict fidelity and candor, but affable in manner, exceedingly able in his profession, and of great executive capacity. His close application to business doubtless hastened his too early demise, but his character and achievements lastingly reflect credit upon his name and kindred.

Mrs. Charlotte (Bean) Scribner, daughter of John Bean of Salisbury, N. H., and a descendant of Sinkler Bean, died at Bristol, N. H., February, 1905. She was the wife of Lowell Scribner, of Salisbury. An active member of the Methodist church, a kind neighbor, and an industrious home-keeper. She was well and favorably known in the towns of Salisbury, Franklin, Bristol and Alexander, in which she successively made her home.

Mrs. Emily Dudley Merrill, of Raymond, N. H., died May 2, 1905, at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Olive E.Bean, in that town, where she had been cared for during the past two years. She was born in Raymond, N. H., January 5, 1830, the daughter of Gilman and Mary (Bean) Dudley, of that place, and was hence, at the time of her death, seventy-five years of age.

Of the six children of her parents—five daughters and one son—one sister, Mrs. Mary E. (Dudley) Minish, of Paris, Ill., alone survives her.

Mrs. Merrill united with the Congregational church near her home in 1869, and its present pastor officiated at her funeral, which took place on the afternoon of May 4, and she was laid to rest in the old "Dudley" cemetery, where many of her near kindred lie.

Having been an invalid for years she was unable to attend the meetings of this Association, in whose proceedings, however, she took much interest.

Miss Hannah L. Bean, of Lakeport, N. H., died at the home of her parents in that town, Wednesday, August 9, 1905, at the age of twenty-eight years.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bean, of Lakeport, who, together with four brothers and two sisters, survive her. She had been an invalid for some time from malignant disease of the liver and her death came as a blessed relief.

No other data has been received as yet in response to inquiries made in regard to her life and character, and only the newspaper announcement of her death has been available.

John K. Bean, of East Weymouth, Mass., died suddenly at his home in that town a few weeks since. He was for many years engaged in the grocery business, and was well and favorably known in his community.

It is matter of regret that no further information concerning him has been received in response to inquiries made.

Mrs. Sabina J. Bean, of Dorchester, Mass., is reported to your committee as having died February 26, 1905, but other data concerning the event and her life, having failed to come to hand, further mention is deferred.

Mrs. E. M. Stevens, of Exeter, N. H., understood to be of Bean ancestry, is also reported to have recently died but no further facts having been received, further mention is also deferred.

Joshua Fillebrown Bean, (son of Shepard Bean, and of the line of Joshua), died recently at Augusta, Me. He was born in Lee, April 26, 1842. He married June 24, 1864, Lydia Ann Crandalmire, daughter of Joseph Peirson and Maria Morehouse (Murphy) Crandalmire. He had three children, two daughters and a son. No further data concerning him has been received and further tribute must be deferred.

Mrs. Anna K. Bean, widow of the late James Bean, died at her home in Medford, Mass., August 5, 1905. Funeral services were held from her late residence, the Monday afternoon following her demise. No further facts have, been obtainable as to her life and character in the brief space since her death.

All of which is respectfully submitted for the Committee.

Azel Ames, Chairman.

A vote of thanks was cordially given Mrs. E. W. Johnson of East Wilton, Me., for the valuable manuscripts and genealogical data, formerly belonging to her late brother-in-law, Hon. Dearborn G. Bean, which she, at this meeting, presented to the Association, in compliance with his wishes.

A recess was taken at noon, during which a very fine dinner was served by the ladies of St. Luke's, at a minimum charge, which was very highly appreciated by all. A social hour followed the dinner, at the close of which the afternoon session was called to order.

After music and remarks a strong address was delivered by Vice President, Dr. Azel Ames, of Wakefield, Mass., dealing with the work of the Association and the duties of its members.

On motion of Dr. Ames, the Genealogical Committee and the Committee on Necrology were consolidated, the latter to be a section of the former.

The election of officers for the next year followed, endorsing the report of the Committee on Nominations, resulting as follows:

President: Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D. D., Lawrence, Mass.

Vice Presidents: John A. Bean, Haverhill, Mass.; Robert H. Bean, Boston, Mass.; Cotton W. Bean, New York; Azel Ames, M. D., Wakefield, Mass.; Mrs. Helen D. Fillebrown, Boston, Mass.; Samuel Bean, Lebanon, N. H.; Hon. George F. A. Bean, Olneyville, R. I.; Rufus E. Bean, Franklin, N. H.; Hon. George F. Bean, Woburn, Mass.; Hon. Edwin C. Bean, Belmont, N. H.

Secretary: Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.

Assistant Secretary: Rufus E. Bean, Franklin, N. H.
Treasurer: Jacob Bean, Boston, Mass.
Assistant Treasurer: Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.
Executive Committee: The President and Secretary ex officis; Newell W. Beane, M. D., Bedford, Mass.; Capt. E. D. Bean, Arlington, Mass.; Willie Joseph Bean, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Colby Lamb, Haverhill, Mass.; Joseph W. Bean, West Derry, N. H.; Eliphalet Cloutman, Stoneham, Mass.; Mrs. Hiram H. Bean, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Annie D. Davis, Raymond, N. H.; Miss Mary E. Chellis, Meriden, N. H.; Miss Clara Fox Bean, Gilmanton, N. H.; Fred Bean, Warner, N. H.; Mrs. Lizzie M. Stockwell, Lyndonville, Vt.
Genealogical and Necrological Committee: Azel Ames, M. D., Wakefield, Mass.; Rev. S. C. Beane, D. D., Lawrence, Mass.; Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.; Newell W. Beane, M. D., Bedford, Mass.; Mrs. E. W. Johnson, East Wilton, Me.; Rufus E. Bean, Franklin, N. H.; Mrs. Helen D. Fillebrown, Boston, Mass.

On motion, resolutions of thanks were passed in cordial recognition of the services and courtesies of Mr. Joseph W. Bean, of Derry, for his ardent interest and zealous labors in behalf of this reunion; of Rev. William Thomson, the pastor of St. Luke's Church; of the ladies for their fine dinner, etc.; of the press; of J. F. Cummings of Hotel Bradford, for his attentions to guests, to the singers and readers, and of all who had contributed to the great success of the reunion.

The committee on next meeting place recommended Warner, N. H., and after discussion it was voted to accept the invitation from that place provided it was approved by the Executive Committee, the distance from the centers of membership being the chief objection.

The Association adjourned at 3.30 sine die, subject to the call of the Executive Committee.

FRANK CHASE BEAN,
Secretary.

TENTH REUNION

JOHN BEAN OF EXETER.

The tenth reunion of the members of the John Bean Association and their kindred was held at the Franklin House, Lawrence, Mass., Thursday, September 13, 1906. A reception by the officers, in the parlors of the Franklin House, Wednesday evening, was well attended and was a pleasing social event.

The session of the Association at the Franklin House was called to order at 10 o'clock by the President, Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D.D., about eighty being present.

Prayer was offered by Rev. George C. Wright of Lowell, and Cyrus E. Bean, Esq., of Lawrence, spoke a few cordial words of greeting and welcome, to which President Beane happily responded as follows:

Kindred of Every Degree, One and All: The word of greeting so fitly spoken by our kinsman, Cyrus E. Bean of this city, which is his home and mine, leaves little more to be said. That we are glad to have you all come to us must be self-evident. Some of us — alas, I do — remember when this Lawrence of to-day with its seventy-five thousand people and its immense and world-famous factories, was known in the region as "The New City." It had not yet got a name. The moderator of its its first town meeting is still bright and hale. See what Yankee enterprise and wisely invested Yankee capital can do during the active life-time of one man. I trust that your eyes will light to-day on the largest worsted factory in the world, located in this city.

If now I may turn to the Bean family, let me say that I am not ashamed of them for the part they have taken and achieved in the world's work. If we have few or none who have startled the world with their fame, we have furnished our full quota of men and women who have been the soul and life of the localities where Providence has located them. We have among our family-members a few judges, several Congressmen, and a few mayors of cities; not many lawyers, but more ministers and teachers; a multitude engaged in commerce, merchandising and finance; but far the large majority have, through the generations, been making the earth bring forth increasingly of her fruits, and there is nothing better to do under the sun. One specialty seems to have fallen to our kindred, judging by the fact that within five miles of my native place three Joseph Beans had thriving saw mills, and "Bean's Mills" are an institution hard to escape in New Hampshire and Maine.

No more of what we are doing. We are pretty much all trying to do something fairly well, and are, to a reasonable degree, succeeding.

Let us be free and happy here to-day, renew the grip, and take a reasonable pride in our lineage.

Reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were read by the Secretary and Assistant Treasurer Frank Chase Bean, and accepted. The Secretary also read letters of regret at the inability of the writers to be present, from Mr. and Mrs. Austin H. Bean, Lyndon, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Housel, Galesburg, Ill.; Peter S. Bean, Calotta, Wis.; Frederick J. Bean, Binghampton, N. Y.; Cora L. Kirk, Mt. Vernon, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Allen, Washington, D. C.; John F. Hall, Derry, N. H.; J. L. Bean, Atlantic, Iowa; Rev. W. S. Bean, Clinton, S. C., and Elizabeth Bean Mills, Newbury, Ore.

Following these the company joined in singing "The Clansmen's Song" written by Mrs. Alice (Bean) Lodge.

Vice President Azel Ames, M. D., Chairman of the Committee on Genealogy and Necrology reported as follows for the Necrology section of that committee:

NECROLOGY REPORT

FOR 1906

OF THE

COMMITTEE ON GENEALOGY AND NECROLOGY.

Mr. President and Kindred: —

The Section on Necrology of your Committee on Genealogy and Necrology begs leave to submit the following as its report for the current year:

It is but just to itself; to those who have departed; to the Association and to the work itself, given your committee to do, to say, in preface, that, although the better attention given to the sending of data for this report to your committee or the Secretary of the Association, and the slightly increased use of the "Obituary blanks" sent out by the committee last year, has somewhat lightened its labors and permitted it to discharge them more intelligently, the members of the Association and the Bean kindred are not yet coöperating with the committee in its really arduous labors as they should, and are not quite fair to it, to themselves, or to the memories of departed friends.

They do not yet think as carefully as they ought, as soon as a death in the BEAN family occurs, or becomes known to them, to forward a mention of it, either by postal card, letter, newspaper-clipping, or filled "Necrology Blank," to the committee, or the Association Secretary, with the information which will enable a proper obituary notice of the deceased to be prepared. It is asking your committee to "make bricks," as it were, "without straw," to expect it to present to the Association at its annual meeting, full, proper and satisfactory biographical sketches of those who have passed away, if no information, nor even notices of deaths occurring, have been furnished. Of course, your committee is constantly alert in its watchfulness of the newspapers, etc., and gathers from these and other general sources, such data as it can, but necessarily very much escapes observation that should be known, and the main reliance for the data for such Necrology Reports as we ought to have here annually, must be upon the members of the Association and the kindred generally.

It is the earnest desire of your committee to submit each year, a thoroughly comprehensive, correct, just, systematic, useful and interesting obituary sketch of each member of the Bean Family—whether ever a member of this Association or not—who has died within the year, and the committee will be at considerable pains to do so, but it must have, at least, knowledge of the death to start upon, and for that it must rely upon those most likely and best situated to be informed. It takes but a moment to write a postal, or to cut out a newspaper death-notice (marking the paper it was from and the date upon it) and to mail it to the chairman of the committee or to the Association Secretary. If this is done the rest will be done by the committee. These reports will be of great utility and a source of much satisfaction to the Bean kindred as time goes by, if they are properly prepared, indexed, classified and so arranged as to be of service to inquirers in all the years to come. It can be made a source of great assistance to many genealogists, family historians and others who are interested, either directly in those of their name, or in those with whom some of our family have intermarried, or in the history of towns, etc.

Let us each, from this day forward, make it a rule of our daily lives, whenever we read of a death of one of the Bean name, to immediately mark it, and clip it, if possible, then, but if not, to at any rate mark it and lay it aside, so that it may be clipped and forwarded with proper marks, to your committee who will most cordially appreciate this aid. A small envelope kept in a particular place, marked Bean Necrology, into which all such data can be at once placed for safety, to be forwarded as soon as a rainy Sunday or other convenient time will permit, will greatly help forward this important work, which, with only the use of a little system and healthy habit, will become an eminently useful and interesting part of our Association work—alike honorable to our loved ones and a blessing to ourselves. Your committee will furnish the "blanks" at any time, and also request a full sketch of any of the family, or name, who has passed away. It aims to make its sketches of individuals uniform in character, so far as vital statistics go, and to give the lineage of each person deceased, so far as practicable, and to let the character and narrative sketch of each one furnish the element of desirable variety for them. A few years now of good careful work, on the part of all, will put this department of our efforts into good and effective shape, open to instant reference by card catalogue or index, and leaving no important regrettable gaps either in the list or life-memoirs of those of our kindred who have finished their labors.

You will agree that this is something desirable, that to accomplish it all should be able and willing to do each a little and to do it systematically. Kindly help us to do the work you have set us to do, as it should be done. Every year this report has to be written up and put in final shape, after midnight, the night before our annual meeting, because much data is not received until the evening before, and the report has often to be added to (as this morning) even after the meeting opens, because data was not turned in until then. If the notice of death had been sent soon after the event, the committee would have looked up the rest, gathered the lacking facts and made a better report, more just to itself, the subject, and you, than is now possible.

THE REPORT.

The report of this year embraces the names of seventeen of our kindred who have "passed over the river," to receive, we hope and believe, the benediction of "well done good and faithful servants, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." Of these, nine were members of the Association, either by attendance at some of its meetings, or by requested registration as such; or as wives, husbands, or immediate family or relatives of members, sons, daughters, etc., and eight were non-members. (There ought not to be any non-members.)

If we go forward as an Association as hopefully as our present promises, our registration like our other work, will become more and more complete and better systematized and this in itself, will be of much assistance in this field of effort. It ought to be possible in a few years—and a great Family goes forward through the centuries—to almost instantly place any individual mentioned, in his, or her, proper relation in our lineage and so to know just how to fix many of his life-affiliations, localities, his work in the world, his early influences, etc., as part—and a most important part—of his record. As President Roosevelt has well said,

"The work of a man and his object should not simply be to make a living, but to make a life," and we do not realize how much is lost to the world in stimulus, in example, in encouragement and in all the equities, when a good, useful, valuable, helpful life goes out, without being given proper record, in justice to the individual and the world, and to those who shall come after.

Your committee following its established rule, presents first, the obituaries of its officers deceased; second, those of its members; third, of its localized non-members; and fourth, of such of the name, on any part of the earth's surface, as have passed off the stage of action and whose demise has come to our knowledge.

Cotton Ward Bean, Esq., long an interested and active officer of this Association, and one of the Vice Presidents, is as such, properly the first of our kindred, to receive our tribute.

It is much to be regretted that certain data expected from a long-time office-mate and close friend, has not been received in season to be made part of this sketch, but it may perhaps be later incorporated in the permanent record.

We are fortunate, however, in being able to present extracts from a very fitting memorial of him.

A WORTHY TRIBUTE.

Wilson Palmer offered the following word of tribute to the late Cotton Ward Bean, a native of Candia, at the gathering of the Candia Home Association on Tuesday, August 21:

"Among those who have gone out and up from us since our last gathering, is the late Cotton Ward Bean, who is so well and pleasantly remembered by us older ones, as a Candia boy. Mr. Bean was for several terms a pupil in the Candia High school, a half century ago, where he maintained an enviable rank in all his studies.

"Cotton Ward Bean was, his life long, an exemplification of the Golden Rule. Upright and modest in all his business life, he had gathered about him a host of friends. In New York City as in Candia, he was held in the highest esteem!

"In his family, he was the ideal husband and father. He loved his home with an ever abounding and increasing love, and he loved Candia second only to his pleasant and attractive home in Mt. Vernon, New York. Candia recognizes and mourns the loss of one of her most loving and loyal children in the death of Mr. Bean, therefore does his native town extend its sympathy and love to his daughters, Mrs. Kirk and Mrs. Lockwood.

"Candia will ever revere the memory of Cotton Ward Bean."

—Derry, N. H. News.

The above tribute was signed by the President and Secretary of the Association, and we add to this the very apposite words of his near relative, our honored and beloved President.

Cotton Ward Bean. (John[1], Daniel[2], Daniel[3], David[4], Reuben[5], Reuben[6],) died at his home in Mount Vernon, New York, April 22, 1906. He was son of Reuben and Sally (Ward) Bean, and at his death was eighty years old. Born at Candia, N. H., educated in the schools of the town, he early shifted for himself, his father having died when he was a small boy. As clerk, and in other capacities, he spent several years in Exeter, Manchester and Boston. He then went to New York City and after a while entered into business for himself as a wholesale merchant.

For some years just preceding his death he had been engaged in the law and real estate business, having his office in the New York Evening Post Building on Broadway.

Mr. Bean was a man of good business ability and of a brilliant mind, and had a delightful gift and sense of humor. He numbered among his friends many of the leading citizens of New York, and lived a happy life, honored and beloved.

He was a member of the John Bean Association from the start, and has been for several years one of its Vice Presidents, always attending our meetings, at whatever outlay of time and strength, whenever he was able.

He leaves two daughters, Cora, wife of Edward Kirk of New York, and Kate McCullough, wife of Richard Hart Lockwood, also of the same city. There are two grandchildren in each of these two families.

Mrs. Ruth Beede Green, of Raymond, N. H., born at Chester, N. H., February 8, 1841; died at Raymond, February 19, 1904. She was the daughter of Ebenezer Sanborn and Susanna Peaslee (Bean), the latter a daughter of Jonathan Bean and Elizabeth (Peaslee) Bean, of Wilmot, N. H.

Ebenezer Sanborn was born in Fremont, N. H., and was the son of Ebenezer Sanborn and Lydia Bean, who was a daughter of Jeremiah Bean, of Danville, N. H., who was a soldier of the Revolution.

After her marriage to Addison Green she moved to Raymond, in August, 1869, where she spent the remainder of her life.

She was educated as a girl at the old Chester Academy, which has a most excellent name and history, having graduated not a few people who have been most useful and eminent in many walks of life.

Mrs. Green was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Raymond, and of the Raymond Grange.

She was known widely among her friends and acquaintances for hospitality and genuine kindness of heart and unfailing sympathy.

George Washington Lafayette Bean (son of Hon. Benning M. Bean) was born at Moultonboro, N. H., September 3, 1826, and died March 39, 1905, at Newtonville, Mass.

He was educated at Moultonboro, left home at the age of nineteen, and lived in Boston, or vicinity, most of his life.

He was actively engaged in farm work, railroading, hotel keeping, and for the last thirty years of his life, in the oil business.

He was a member of the Newtonville Universalist Church, and active in benevolent and philanthropic enterprises. In fact, his whole life was epitomized in the word "active." There was no sluggishness about him. He was interested especially in the Prohibition and Woman Suffrage movements.

He was noted among friends and acquaintances for his essentially optimistic temperament; no cloud was so dark but he could see its silver lining; no person so bad but he could find some good trait in him. He was the soul of hospitality and generosity. Children loved him instinctively. His home was the dearest place on earth to him, and he made it the happiest. His memory is a perpetual inspiration.

Amanda Melvina (Lang) Whittier, of Raymond, N. H., (wife of Aaron G. Whittier), was born May 23, 1837, at Candia, N. H., and died at Raymond, June 8, 1805. She was daughter of David and Sally (Sanborn) Lang, of Candia.

She had lived at Candia, Deerfield and Raymond, moving from Candia to Deerfield about 1860, and to Raymond about 1865.

She was educated as a girl at Candia. She was a member of the Free Baptist Church of Candia, Alforator Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Raymond, and the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R., of that place. An active, useful member and worker in them all.

She was a devoted wife and mother, and had five sons: Byron S.; Edwin; and an infant son deceased; David W.; of Raymond, born July 4, 1864; and A. Byron; of Manchester, born April 10, 1876.

Her chief joy was in her home life.

Mrs. Rebeçca (Bean) Frachner, wife of Orine P. Frachner, of Weare, N. H., and daughter of Stephen Follansbee Raymond and ——— Small, and granddaughter of Thomas Raymond and Ruth Bean, (Stephen being a legally adopted son) was born at Weare, N. H., July 4, 1841, and died at Goffstown, September 29, 1905, just after the last meeting of our association.

She had a common school education, and on July 9, 1865, married Orine P. Frachner. They soon removed to Manchester, then to Bradford, and then to Goffstown in 1880. They had an only son, George A. Frachner, now of Weare.

Mrs. Frachner was at the time of her death a member of the Congregational Church of Goffstown, was prominent in lodge and society work, being a Past President of Captain Charles Stinson Corps, No. 82, W. R. C. of the G. A. R., a Past Chief of Calanthe Temple, R. S., and a member of Mystery Rebekah Lodge, No. 39, I. O. O. F.

She was influential, useful and much beloved in all the relations of life.

Mrs. Ellen Bean, wife of Thomas Bean, of Easton, (Mass.); among the early members of this association, passed away at her home at Easton, early in the year, aged seventy years nine months and seventeen days, and was buried at Easton. It is much to be regretted that a more detailed account of her long life has not been made available.

The local press and others speak of her as "a woman who won the esteem of all who knew her by her kindly ways." Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elsie M. Hill, of Sterling, and Mrs. Emma Hewitt, of Easton.

Mrs. Sarah Collins (Beane) Sawyer whose lineage was John[1], Daniel[2], Daniel[3], Daniel[4], Abraham[5], Joseph[6], was the sister of our beloved and honored President. She was the daughter of Joseph and Lydia Haynes (Collins) Beane, and was born at Bean's Island, Candia, N. H., April 8, 1830. Educated at the public schools and at the Gymnasium, Pembroke, N. H., and for some time a successful teacher, she was married in 1853 to Ezra A. J. Sawyer of Deerfield, N. H., where she ever after made her home. She became a widow nearly twenty years ago, and herself passed away on the 5th of March, 1906. She leaves three children, Fred Beane, and John Francis, of South Dakota, and Mabel, who has always resided, unmarried, in the Deerfield home.

Mrs. Sawyer was a woman of exceptional intelligence and refinement, alive to all important events and good causes, a lover of literature, helpful to all who needed her, and beloved by all persons to whom she was known. She was especially interested in family traditions and descents, and the John Bean Association had no more interested member, though hindered by imperfect health from attending its meetings.

The Exeter News Letter at the time of her death contained a tribute that included these sentences: "She inherited the striking qualities of her ancestors as her birthright." "Her refined, sympathetic, cultured mind was a source of joy to all who knew her;" and quoted the following as fitly becoming her: "All the immortal loveliness of time and the ages of history and poetry belonged to her." A Rare Woman!

Mr. Fred Seneca Bean, of Manchester, N. H., a prominent expert in the construction and operation of steam fire engines, for thirty years foreman of construction in the manufacture of the celebrated Amoskeag steam fire engines, and for twenty years assistant engineer of the Manchester Fire Department, etc., died in that city, March 16, 1906, of pulmunary consumption. He was born in Hudson, February 22, 1854, the son of Jonas N. and Mary (Richardson) Bean, his father being a wheelwright, and his uncle the late, N. S. Bean, (mentioned in a former report) like himself, devoted to the steam engine manufacture.

He was educated in the common schools at Hudson, but on moving, while yet a lad, to Manchester, under the patronage of his uncle, who saw and recognized his marvelous natural mechanical abilities, he kept him in school long after he was anxious to be in the shop. He attended the old North Grammar school and at eighteen graduated from the High school at Manchester. He quickly entered the Amoskeag shops and went, with the development of the steam fire engine industry, to the Blood Locomotive Works. He had a wide reputation, not only as a steam fire engine expert, but as a practical "fire fighter." Perfect mechanism was his passion and delight, the absorbing feature of his life, though he was essentially "a home man."

He married Viola Smith of Lowell, Mass., in 1885, and had by her four daughters, all of whom survive him.

He was a member of many organizations and highly popular in them all, as indeed he was everywhere, and wholly on account of his real worth.

He was treasurer of the Manchester Fireman's Relief Association, and prominent on the official staff of the New England Veteran Fireman's League for years. He was a member of the First Baptist church of Manchester; of Lafayette Lodge, No. 41, A. F. and A. M.; Mount Horeb Royal Arch Chapter, No. 11; Adoniram Council, R. and S. M., and Trinity Commandery, K. T.

He was a thorough, highly intelligent, broad-minded and valuable citizen, whose special work has added much to the safety and comfort of mankind, a plain, unpretentious, but effective man, of whose like the world needs many more.

He became a member of this Association at the Manchester meeting in 1898.

Mrs. Betsey (Bean) Batchelder, (widow of the late David M. Batchelder and daughter of John and Betsey Dudley (Bean) Prescott,) who was born in Raymond, N. H., April 24, 1822, died at her home, 16 Walnut street, Haverhill, Mass., April 20, 1906, of heart trouble.

She spent some years in Windham, N. H., removing to Haverhill some thirty-five years ago. She united with the Baptist church as a very young woman, and was at the time of her death, a member of the Winter Street Baptist church of Haverhill, and long an active member of its Female Benevolent Society, and upon its Visiting Committee.

She left a sister and two daughters, the latter, Miss Ella F. Batchelder and Mrs. G. Herman Hodson, of Haverhill.

A leading Haverhill paper says of her:

"The death of Mrs. Batchelder brings to an end a life which was spent more for others than for herself. She was one of the oldest members of the Haverhill Female Benevolent Society, both in the number of years she was a member and in the point of age, and in the thirty years' service to the society she made her presence felt. She was for many years on the visiting committee and many a wretched face has been made happy, not only by her kindly presence, but by her own good deeds of charity. She gave the best part of her life to others, and has gone to her reward, mourned by a host of friends."

Those of our Bean kindred who were non-members of the Association who have passed away, or whose deaths have been brought to the attention of your committee, since the last necrological report, are the following:

Mr. Alpheus Crosby Beane of Augusta, Ga., (son of Joseph Sanborn Bean and Harriet Craig Smith, grandson of Josiah Bean and Olive Sanborn, great-grandson of Capt. Josiah Bean and Harriet Page West, and great-great-grandson of David Bean of Exeter, N. H.), who was born at Great Falls, N. H., January 4, 1830, died at Summerville, Augusta, Ga., November 23, 1905, after a week's illness.

He came of fine lines of old New Hampshire stock; had a common school education in his home town, then graduated at Gilmanton Academy, and was appointed to the United States Military Academy at West Point, but after a two years' course there, his health failing, he removed to Augusta, Ga., when nineteen years of age, and made that his home for the remainder of his life. He was four years in the Treasury Department of the Confederacy during the Civil War, and prominently connected with banking interests during his later life, and with the commercial interests of his enterprising city. He was an officer of the State Bank of Georgia and of the First National Bank of Augusta, Ga. He had retired from business before his demise. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Augusta, and active in forwarding every good work. He also held membership in the Order of the Royal Arcanum.

He was known for his gracious, sunny, lovely disposition, and especially for his love of children and dumb animals.

One of the leading journals of his city says of him:

"The demise of this gentleman will cast a gloom over the entire city, for no one was better known or better liked and loved. Of a cheerful disposition, very courteous, possessing the faculty of making and keeping friends, and a true representative of the Southern gentleman of ante-bellum times, Mr. Beane had become known to hundreds and had endeared himself to all with whom he was acquainted."

He married Miss Mary Walker, a Southern lady, and is survived by his widow and one son, Mr. Frank E. Beane, and two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth, wife of J. B. Connolly, and Miss Caroline Beane.

Mr. J. B. Connolly, son-in-law of Mr. Beane, died suddenly at Nicaragua, C. A., at about the time of his father-in-law's death.

L. Willis Bean, of Concord, Mass., died in that town January 12, 1906, aged seventy-six years, nine months. No further information concerning him has come to your committee.

Mrs. Sabina J. Bean, widow of Benjamin L. Bean, died at Dorchester, Mass., February 26, 1906, aged seventy-five years, ten months. No further information concerning her has come to your committee.

Mr. Frank A. Bean, of Roslindale, Mass., died at the City Hospital, Boston, May 24, 1906, aged sixty-seven years. His antecedents are unknown, but he leaves a widow, Charlotte. He was a member of American Lodge, 191, I. O. O. F., and was a member of the Boston Fire Department, Ladder Co., No.

16, for seventeen years. He was a communicant of the Roman Catholic church, and a man much respected. No further information concerning him has come to your committee.

Mr. Edgar L. Bean, of Cambridge, Mass., (son of Mr. George W. Bean of Somerville, Mass.), born at Somerville, March 10, 1868, died at his summer home at Mason, N. H., June 9, 1906, aged thirty-eight years, three months. Funeral services were held at the First Universalist Church, Cambridge, with which he was connected, Wednesday, June 13, being very largely attended.

Mr. Bean was a well known newspaper man of Cambridge, Somerville and Boston.

A leading Boston paper says of him:

"After a year or two in the Somerville grammar school he entered the printing office of H. L. Hastings, the Cornhill publisher. He began reporting on the Cambridge Chronicle and later for Boston papers, covering Cambridge and Somerville. He had the record for longest continuous service as a Cambridge reporter. In 1897 he became the Herald's Cambridge representative and had held the position ever since. During his connection with the Boston papers he retained his connection with the Chronicle, of which his brother is one of the proprietors.

"He was one of the first members of the Boston Press Club, and was also a member of Putnam Lodge of Masons of East Cambridge. In his younger days he was an enthusiastic cyclist and bowler, and at the latter sport he ranked as a "top-notcher."

"He was fitted by nature for the strain of daily newspaper work, being of an extremely cool and imperturbable temperament, while his dry wit and humor and his unfailing good nature made him popular with all.

"There was a very large attendance at the service. The city of Cambridge was represented by Mayor Charles H. Thurston, Clerk of Committees John McDuffie, Assistant Clerk of Committees Eben Pike, City Clerk Edward J. Brandon, Superintendent E. C. Brooks of the Water Department, and others.

"There was also a large gathering of newspaper men, including members of the Herald staff, upon which Mr. Bean was employed, as well as from other Boston and Cambridge papers.

"There were many floral tributes."

Mrs. Lorinda (Lovering) Bean, of Raymond, N. H., (wife of John Bean), who was born December 26, 1816, at Raymond, N. H., died June 26, 1906, at Raymond, at the age of ninety years. She was a resident of Raymond seventy-five years. She was the grandmother of our highly esteemed and efficient Secretary.

Mrs. Bean was a member of the Raymond Methodist Episcopal Church for forty-eight years. She was known and beloved of all for her meek, kind and hopeful disposition. Always courteous to everyone, she was especially interested in the young, and always anxious for their spiritual welfare.

She took a keen interest in the work of her church, and was a member of the Home Department of its Sabbath School even to the time of her death. A fuller account of her life is intended for our permanent record.

Mrs. Benjamin Bean, of Salisbury, N. H., died at her home in that town, of apoplexy, July 21, 1906.

No further information concerning her has reached your committee.

Mr. Orville Augustus Bean, of Portland, Me., who was born in Manchester, N. H., December 17, 1848, died at his home in Portland, Me., June 28, 1906. He was twice married, his first wife being Sarah E. Babbitt, of West Andover, N. H., and of this union there were two children, Edith Winifred, born November 10, 1880, and Ethel Florence, born Nov. 27, 1883.

His second wife was Georgia Nevada Burt, of South Portland, Me., whom he married about 1900, living only about a year afterward. For the past thirty years he had lived in Gorham, Westbrook and Portland. In the early part of his life he engaged in the jewelry business, and travelled extensively in the New England States, and also in the West. His death was instantaneous, from heart disease, while awaiting, upon a wharf in the city, the arrival of a friend. He was laid to rest, June 30, 1906, in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, at South Portland.

Mrs. Roxana Fox Bean of San Jose, Cal., died there May 30, 1905.

Mrs. Bean was the wife of James Bean, who for many years has been the Secretary of the San Jose Ministerial Union. She came of the good old New England stock. Was a faithful member of the Friends' Church. She was one of San Jose's most worthy and respected women.

Mrs. Bean was a woman of large intellect and of fine attainments. The article, "Woman's Sphere of Influence," found in another column of this issue, was written by her when a girl at school. Our readers who are competent to judge of the merits of the article will agree that it is worthy a place among the classics. She possessed the poetic genius in a marked degree. A goodly number of her poems have been published, and they are worthy of a wide reading.

The Home Advocate says of her:

"Her triumph over suffering and her peaceful death, as well as her character and life, were the sufficient answer to her appealing question, so far as it applies to her own case. God seemed to echo this sweet assurance by His Spirit and overshadowing presence in the room where a large number of friends, including many members of the Pastors' Union, were assembled to hear, and to take part in the sweetly solemn service before the crumbling house of clay was borne away to its place in the city of the dead.

"Truly, a 'mother in Israel' has been taken from us, one of God's noble women, a heroine and a saint."

Mrs. Susan Whittier (Bean) Rand, of Epping, N. H., died in that town May 6, 1905.

She was educated at Bethlehem, N. H., was an active member of the Episcopal Church, an interested worker in the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R., and a charitable, generous woman "especially kind to the sick and afflicted." Further data concerning her were promised but have failed to reach your committee.

The Committee on Nominations of Officers and Committees for the ensuing year was named by the Chair, and comprised Moses G. Bean, York Beach, Me.; Miss Ella F. Batchelder, Haverhill, Mass.; Mrs. Elizabeth A. Munoz, Cranford, N. J.; Addison A. Bean, Chester, N. H.; and Rufus E. Bean, Franklin Falls, N. H. The committee retired for consultation.

At eleven o'clock a recess was declared to enable the company to partake of a very delightful light-lunch, provided by the courtesy of Mr. Cyrus E. Bean of Lawrence, in recognition of the fact that many had come from distant homes and had early breakfasts, while the special dinner of the Association was necessarily assigned for two o'clock.

Following the recess, the President introduced Mr. Jacob Bean of Boston, long Treasurer of the Association and its oldest living member, being in his 90th year. Mr. Bean expressed his pleasure at being present and referred to the elaborate genealogical "tree" he had hung upon the wall, as evidence of his family interest, and his activities, despite his years.

The Nominating Committee submitted its report, which was unanimously endorsed and the following declared elected for the year ensuing:

President: Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D. D., Lawrence, Mass.

Vice Presidents: John A. Bean, Haverhill, Mass.; Robert H. Bean, Boston; Major Azel Ames, M. D., Wakefield, Mass.; Mrs. Helen D. Fillebrown, Boston; Samuel Bean, Lebanon, N. H.; Hon. G. F. A. Beane, Olneyville, R. I.; Rufus E. Bean, Franklin, N. H.; Hon. Geo. F. Bean, Woburn, Mass.; Hon. Edwin C. Bean, Belmont, N. H.; Rev. W. S. Bean, D. D., Clinton, S. C.; Mrs. Cora L. Kirk, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Mrs. Elizabeth A. Munoz, Cranford, N. J.

Secretary and Treasurer: Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.

Assistant Secretary: Rufus E. Bean, Franklin, N. H.

Executive Committee: The President and Secretary, ex officis; Newell W. Beane, M. D., Bedford, Mass.; Capt. E. D. Bean, Arlington, Mass.; Mrs. Rebecca (Bean) Lamb, Haverhill, Mass.; Joseph W. Bean, West Derry, N. H.; Eliphalet Cloutman, Stoneham, Mass.; Mrs. Hiram H. Bean, Boston; Mrs. Annie D. Davis, Raymond, N. H.; Miss Mary L. Chellis, Meriden, N. H.; Miss Clara Fox Bean, Gilmanton, N. H.; Fred Bean, Warner, N. H.; Mrs. Lizzie Bean Stockwell, Lyndonville, Vt.

Committee on Genealogy and Necrology: Maj. Azel Ames, M. D., Wakefield, Mass.; Rev. Samuel C. Beane, D. D., Lawrence, Mass.; Frank Chase Bean, Haverhill, Mass.; Rufus E. Bean, Franklin, N. H.; Jacob Bean, Boston; Newell W. Beane, M. D., Bedford, Mass.; Mrs. Helen D. Fillebrown, Boston; Mrs. E. W. Johnson, E. Wilton, Me.

Mrs. E. B. Choate of Lawrence, rendered finely the solo, "Lest We Forget."

Vice President Azel Ames, M. D., as chairman of the Committee on Genealogy and Necrology, submitted a very full report upon the new and basic discoveries and the work done in relation to them, during the past year, of the highest importance to the Bean Family and the Association. The report follows:

A REPORT ON THE GENEALOGY OF THE BEAN FAMILY.

BY AZEL AMES, M.D., CHAIRMAN.

Mr. President and Kindred: —

Your reorganized committee upon the Genealogy and Necrology of the John Bean Association, composed of the descendants of the original American progenitor of our line, has the very great pleasure of bringing to you as the first fruits of its labors, almost "an embarassment of riches" and surprises, as its Genealogical Report for the year. Those who trace their descent from the senior John Bean, for nearly sixty years a resident of Exeter, N. H., have, for some years past, rather held in a general way, by the traditions and beliefs:

(a) That their earliest American ancestor, John Bean, came to this country about 1660;

(b) That he had married a wife "beyond seas," who died upon the voyage hither;

(c) That he remarried here, as his next wife, a Scotch or "Scotch-Irish girl, who came over in the same ship with him," and

(d) That she became the mother of most of his large family of children.

These were the more or less vague, and somewhat variable, traditions of the Bean Family. Record-evidence in support of them was wofully lacking, and the long and careful research of our two highly able, trustworthy and beloved chiefs, the late Josiah H. Drummond and the late Dearborn G. Bean, did not materially affect them. Indeed, certain facts noted and applied by Dr. Drummond, rather led him,—in the absence of more light—to lend his confidence and support (in general) to, and to largely (tentatively) adopt, these traditions and beliefs, as outlined.

It is, of course, well known that Dr. Drummond and Mr. D. G. Bean were not primarily responsible for these traditions, (though they doubtless were for their greater currency) for they but took them, largely as they found them, in the Family, and finding no positive disproof of them, and some seeming support of them, accepted them, as subject to amendment whenever new and more reliable data should warrant and permit.

Although somewhat startling and revolutionary, your committee feels warranted, as the result of most careful research and examination, in stating that such new and more reliable evidence, compelling new and different conclusions from those heretofore accepted, has been found, and that neither of the long-accepted traditions and beliefs above stated,—and often appearing in print, —is correct, and it becomes alike the duty and high privilege of your committee to duly authenticate and establish the real facts in their stead.

There was—as the careful listener will note—just enough of semblance of probability, as now ascertained, in these earlier and well-known traditions, to give strong color to them, but like most such lore, they had become, with time and frequent repetition, so much enlarged and twisted out of shape, as to be very wide of the facts and of their earliest form.

It is, for example, probable, that John Bean was not "of Exeter" until "about 1660," but that he was in New England some, and perhaps many, years earlier, appears certain.

It is very certainly not true that he married before coming to this country, and what seemed the only evidence supporting this tradition, as upheld by Dr. Drummond, viz.: the existence of a daughter Mary, born, (as shown by "old Norfolk County records") so early as to make her birth certainly prior to the hitherto supposed time of her father's arrival in New England, is amply accounted for, and disposed of, otherwise, and with radically different results.

That John Bean had an earlier wife than his Exeter wife Margaret, (as probably the original tradition affirmed) is true; that he married her here in New England, and not "beyond seas," is doubtless equally true, but the tradition that he lost a wife "on the voyage over"—while hardly within the range of barest possibility—wholly lacks confirmation and is altogether improbable. That he married a "Scotch, or Scotch-Irish girl" here, is most true; that she came over in the same ship with him, (if he came as an infant) is barely possible, but she was a wife never known (until very recently) to any of us; she was, in all probability, his first and not a second wife; was very certainly the mother of his daughter Mary; and of two others of his (Bean's) earliest children; and so far from being hopelessly lost to us (in the above vague description of "a Scotch-Irish girl who came over in the ship with him,") she, her name and lineage and much of her family history, are now well known to us. But alas! she was not, as we could wish—being well identified and of excellent "stock"—the mother of John Bean's nine Exeter-born children. Their mother yet remains, the later wife,—our beloved ancestress, the still unidentified Margaret.

"Like thunder from a clear sky" there burst upon our Bean household—and especially upon your Genealogical Committee—in the April number of the Essex Antiquarian, for this year, (1906) an article by Henry Winthrop Hardon, Esq., a very able lawyer and genealogist of New York City, entitled "John Bean's First Wife."

Accustomed to regard our late much-revered President Drummond, and his able and reliable associate, the late Secretary Bean, as well nigh impeccable and infallible in their work and conclusions, this vigorous intrusion of this stranger—not even remotely of kin to us—in such confident fashion, into our household affairs, upsetting our traditions and our equilibrium, at first amazed, then offended and then provoked critical examination of his pregnant statements. The latter challenged and compelled careful research along the lines indicated and into all attendant facts. This has brought us very considerable results, and to the ultimate endorsement and acceptance, as valid, of many of Mr. Hardon's suggestions and conclusions, although, unfortunately, they were robbed of much of their hoped-for significance, value and force, by the determination on final analysis, that the newly discovered wife of John Bean was mother to but three (or, at most, four) of his twelve children.

Your committee has thought best to present a pretty full abstract of Mr. Hardon's article that those of the Association who have not seen it may understand its force, scope and value. It is as follows:

"JOHN BEAN'S FIRST WIFE

BY HENRY WINTHROP HARDON.

"It has been assumed on the faith of of a family tradition which first found its way into print in Lancaster's History of Gilmanton, published in 1845, and was repeated successively in Runnell's Sanbornton, in the Bangor Historical Magazine, volume I, page 159, and in the annual publications of the John Bean Association, that John Bean, the freeman of Exeter, 1677, came from Scotland about 1660, that his first wife died on the way to America, and that he married, for his second wife, an Irish girl who had been a fellow passenger, of whom nothing further was known, except that her name was Margaret. The record at Salem of the birth, June 8, 1655, of a daughter Mary, was accordingly assumed to be that of a child born before his arrival in this country. This tradition will have to be revised in part at least, if not abandoned altogether, in view of further records which have recently come to light.

"In the Essex Antiquarian, volume II, page 148, is the note of a deed, dated April 18, 1654, conveying land at Exeter to Nicholas Lisson, to which deed 'John Baine' was a witness. There is scarcely room for doubt that this witness was John Bean, the freeman of Exeter, 1677.

"In 39 N. H. Deeds, 226, is the record of a deed, dated Nov. 14, 1748, made by 'Holdridge Kelly of Stratham in the Province of New Hampshire & Hannah my wife heretofore Hannah Whittaker, daughter of Abraham Whitaker late of Haverhill, deceased & Hannah his wife who was daughter of John Bean late of Exeter * * * deceased, conveying, by quit-claim, a third part of a forty-acre tract granted by the Town of Exeter to Nicholas Lisson, 'our s'd grandmother Hannah Bean, being one of the daughters of ye sd Nicholas Listen.'

"In 43 N. H. Deeds, 271, is the record of another deed, dated February 12, 1749, made by 'Houldridge Kelly of Stratham * * and Hannah my wife heretofore Hannah Whitaker, great grand daughter of Nicholas Lisson formerly of Exeter * * deceased,' conveying, by quit-claim, all their right, title and interest in three hundred acres 'granted to our sd great grandfather Nicholas Lisson deceased' by the town of Exeter in 1675 and laid out in 1712 'at the request of Nicholas Gordon & Alexander Magoon since deceased.'

"Nicholas, [Lisson] according to Pope, was at Salem in 1637, a proprietor at Marblehead. He is named as creditor in the inventory of George Pollard of Marblehead 30: 4: 1646 (5 Essex Antiquarian, 172.) He had a grant of twenty acres on the little fresh river at Exeter, before May 11, 1654 (1 ibid. 178). In April, 1654, he purchased a house and lot on the water-side at Exeter by a deed to which 'John Baine' was a witness (2 ibid. 148). In 1656, he bought half the new saw-mill at Exeter falls (ibid. 148). In 1659, he owned a quarter of the new mills, John Gilman a quarter, John Cutt, Edward Hilton, John Warren, Thomas King, et al., a half (3 ibid. 141). In 1661, he conveyed to Henry Magoon, 'my son-in-law,' for life, remainder to his son John, lands in Exeter (ibid. 43). April 15, 1670, 'Nicholas Lisen of Exeter, planter,' for three hundred pounds conveyed one-quarter of six hundred and forty acres on Lamprel river (8 ibid. 38). Notes of other transactions, none of later date, may be found in 3 ibid. 43, 6 ibid. 172, 7, ibid. 32. 138-9.

"The inference to be derived from the deed in 39 N. H. Deeds, above quoted, is that Nicholas Lisson had three daughters and no sons. His daughter Hannah married John Bean, another daughter married Henry Magoon, and the third daughter perhaps married a Gordon.

"Their daughter Hannah Lisson, who married John Bean, was unknown to Mr. Drummond, the historian of the John Bean family. Their daughter Hannah is not mentioned by him in the list of John Bean's children. There is, however, a gap in his list between the birth of Mary, the first child, June 8, 1655, and John, the next, 1661. If further search should not disclose the record of the birth of Hannah^{2} (John^{1}) Bean it may well be assumed that she was born a little later than her husband, Abraham^{2} Whitaker, Jr., son of Abraham^{1} Whitaker and Elizabeth^{2} (William^{1}) Symonds of Haverhill. He was born February 29, 1656 (4 Essex Antiquarian, 142). Hannah^{2} Bean was thus born probably about 1657 or 1658, and was perhaps the second child of her parents.

"It is thus clear that John Bean was at Exeter as early as April 18, 1654, when he witnessed the deed to Nicholas Lisson, that he married, probably about that time, Hannah, the daughter of Nicholas Lisson, and that by her he had a daughter Hannah, born probably about 1657 or 1658 and probably other children."

The chairman of your committee having been a correspondent of Mr. Hardon for some years on other genealogical lines and knowing his ability both as a lawyer and genealogist, fully realized at sight, that anything from his pen was entitled to great respect, and at once, after reading his article, wrote him. Though several letters have been exchanged, they have been to and from Europe, and it is matter for sincere regret that Mr. Hardon's prolonged absence abroad, prevents us from listening here, to-day, to the account from his own lips, as our guest, of how he chanced upon the discovery which meant so much to us; which gave our ancestor *John Bean Sen*r. a new "First Wife"; to certain of his descendants a new "Fore-Mother," and which has stimulated research that has produced other most important and valuable results.

We cannot fail to regard Mr. Hardon as a very helpful benefactor and ally of our Family and Association and we can readily imagine the delight with which our late beloved President, Dr. Drummond, and his ardent ally, the late Secretary Bean, would have hailed these new intelligences and their promoter, Mr. Hardon.

In the very careful and extended research which your committee immediately set on foot, after this new data had been duly weighed and digested, very many new facts relating alike to John Bean and his new-found wife, Hannah Lisson, and to their descendants and others, were brought to light, which had escaped previous search, and most careful and repeated analyses were made of the whole considerable body of evidence, new and old, now for the first time brought together.

The net results—all of which seem established either conclusively or presumptively, by the weight of well sifted evidence, as largely reviewed herein for your critical examination—are the following, which, for a single year's work, begun when hope was well-nigh paralyzed by our great bereavements, are, to say the least, most surprising and gratifying, and warrant the hope of others, hardly less valuable, to follow.

1. The birth date of our first American ancestor, John Bean—not previously known and hardly even approximated—has been closely ascertained, as occurring about 1634, through two affidavits of his own, dated in 1694, recently discovered, in both which he declares himself "Aged 60 years or upwards." Perhaps no more important "find" has been, or could have been, made for the benefit of our Family and Association;

2. The earliest date at which John Bean is known to have been in New England has been carried back at least six years (with the possibility of several more) and it is determined by multiple evidence that he was here as early as 1654, though probably not dwelling at Exeter until 1660 or thereabout;

3. The fact is established by multiple proofs, beyond reasonable doubt or cavil, that our ancestor John Bean married, doubtless for the first time, about 1654, undoubtedly in old Norfolk County, Miss Hannah Lisson, probably born abroad, about 1635, the eldest daughter and child of Nicholas Lisson, (and probably of his wife Alice,?) a well-known, and at one time, well-to-do, Scotchman, or Scotch-Irishman, who came to New England (probably with his wife and at least one child) about 1637, resident of Salem (briefly, 1637), Marblehead (1638, to—probably—1654), and Exeter, N. H. (from 1654 to 1714), where he died in the latter year, aged nearly or quite 100 years. (He married in 1682, at Exeter, a later wife, Jane, but, apparently, had no child by her);

4. The birth of the eldest daughter and child of John Bean and Hannah, viz. Mary Bean, born June 18, 1655, as shown by the "old Norfolk County" Records, and heretofore the occasion of much confusion and doubt, is put beyond question. In the light of the newly-ascertained data, the place of record and the date of birth determine conclusively, that she was born in New England and not "beyond seas"; that her mother was hence here at that time (1655), and had not "died at sea" as alleged; and that her father was then a resident here. In fact, the data in hand entirely demolish the only support of the tradition that the unknown mother of Mary Bean was married to John Bean, and gave birth to this daughter, and died, before coming to these shores;

5. The probable birth (as recognized by Dr. Drummond) of a son Henry, as second child to John Bean, is fairly established by strong concurrent testimony, as the child of his wife Hannah Lisson, instead of the child of the unknown, putative wife who was said to have "died at sea." He was undoubtedly born after Mary, and before Hannah, of whom Dr. Drummond never knew. Your committee shares Dr. Drummond's views as to the probable interchange of the birth and death dates of Henry, as given on "old Norfolk" records;

6. The birth of a second daughter and third child to John and Hannah (Lisson) Bean, (born probably about 1659), is conclusively proven by multiplied official documents and collateral evidence,—a daughter, strangely enough, wholly unknown to, and unrecognized in, "Bean annals," until recently made known, with her mother, by Mr. Hardon's publication;

7. The facts are indisputably established, as of much and varied importance to the Bean lineage, that this hitherto unknown second daughter of John Bean and his hitherto unknown wife Hannah Lisson, namely Hannah Bean, married in April, 1682 (the year of her father's marriage to his wife Jane), Abraham Whittaker, Jr., of Haverhill, Mass., had at least four children (perhaps more) by him, and was herself killed by Indians ten years later, July 18, 1692, only one of her children, apparently a daughter, Hannah Whittaker, living to maturity. It was through the deed of this daughter Hannah Whittaker and her husband Holdridge Kelly, that Mr. Hardon's discovery was made;

8. The evidences upon which alone Dr. Drummond based his belief in a second wife of John Bean named Margaret, are, incidentally, considerably strengthened, and her position—in the light of the new data acquired—has become much more clearly known and defined. Dr. Drummond's conclusion that she married John Bean "in 1660," is strongly upheld, as the marriage must have occurred after 1659 (when Hannah, apparently the last child of the first wife, Hannah (Lisson) who seemingly died soon after this event, was born) and before 1661, (when the first John—apparently the first of John Bean's children born in Exeter—was recorded there). There was no other break in the succession of the children sufficient to permit a wife's death, a remarriage and a normal legal birth of a child to the new wife. The early advent of a daughter, Margaret, and the record evidence of successive church relations of Margaret Bean (who, seemingly, could have been no other than the wife of John Bean, Sen^{r},) at Hampton and Exeter, are naturally confirmatory, presumptive evidences that are well-nigh conclusive. They warrant the hope that your committee—if well supported by your endeavors—may be able to glean more exact data regarding this most important of our forbears, in the near future;

9. The maiden name and relationship of Mary, the wife of Samuel Bean, fourth son of John Bean, Senior, and third son by his second wife, Margaret, whose family patronymic has been hitherto unknown—though much sought by Mr. Drummond and others—has, it is believed, been determined, by convincing evidence, as Mary Severance of Amesbury, and much is hoped-for, in the future, from this newly discovered connection of the many decendants of Samuel and Mary, though it is not yet clear whether she was Samuel's first or second wife,—and

10. As of very great importance to many factors affecting the Bean family, and especially as affecting the descendants of John and his first wife, Hannah Lisson, is the recent discovery, by your committee, of the personal affidavit of her father, Nicholas Lisson, made in 1694, giving his age at that time as "eighty years or thereabouts," showing his birth to have been in or about 1614, and enabling many definite calculations as to his own movements and those of John Bean, not otherwise or hitherto possible.

These, generally stated, are the ten chief points which your committee believes that it has determined, as of very great importance to the Association and to the Bean lineage. It remains to prove them to you as sound.

We have seen that Mr. Hardon calls attention to the three principal published sources of our early Bean traditions (outside our own published "Proceedings"), viz.: Lancaster's "History of Gilmanton," (N. H.), Runnel's "History of Sanbornton," (N. H.) and "The Bean Family," an article published by the late Hon. Dearborn G. Bean, in the "Bangor (Me.) Historical Magazine," in 1866. It is well to examine them.

The last of these reads: "John Bean, Senior, came from Scotland about 1660, and settled in Exeter, N. H. He took the oath of allegiance before Maj. Robert Pike, at Exeter, Nov. 30, 1677. His first wife died on the passage over and after his arrival he soon married a daughter of one of the passengers on the same vessel," etc.

The statement of Runnels is: "According to Lancaster's Listory of Gilmanton, the earliest ancestor of this branch of the Sanbornton Beans was: I, John, who came from Scotland (not Wales) and settled in Exeter before 1660. His wife died on the passage and he afterward married a girl who accompanied them from Ireland [sic], the mother of his eight children," etc.

The first (or Lancaster's) statement, from which both the others seem to be chiefly derived, is as follows; "The Bean Family: The families of the name of Bean in Gilmanton, descended from John Bean, who came from Scotland and settled in Exeter before 1660. His wife died on the passage, and he married a girl who accompanied them from Ireland, by whom he had," etc. [Then follows the list of children from the Exeter records]. This seems to be the earliest printed source of the tradition, which, passed on from generation to generation, has fettered our beliefs, and even now, in the face of rectifying and well established truth, it is difficult to wholly throw aside, as we must.

Your committee has already pointed out the impossibilities of this tradition, in general, and the only features of it that are, to-day, even tenable. Its several "small points" and inconsistencies, such as the varying suggestions as to John Bean's nationality, i.e., whether Welsh, Scotch or Irish; the point of departure for New England, i.e., whether Ireland, or Scotland, etc., your committee do not consider important enough for present consideration.

Everything of importance seems to hinge upon the correctness of the new evidence offered by Mr. Hardon, and of his conclusions in relation thereto. Did John Bean, Sen^{r}, our first American ancestor, marry, as his first wife, Hannah, the daughter of Nicholas Lisson? And if so, when and where? Did she bear him any children, and if so, how many, and which of his known twelve were they? If he did so marry, as appears, then a whole train of sequences of the highest interest and importance inevitably follows.

If Mary was the daughter of John and Hannah (Lisson) Bean, as appears, and she was born to them, as the records of "old Norfolk county" indicate, in 1655, they were, presumably, married in, or about, 1654. If they were married in 1654, the wife Hannah Lisson, was presumably, of about her husband's age, probably a little younger.

To enable us to examine and properly determine these all-important points, the newly-found affidavits of Nicholas Lisson and John Bean, as to their respective ages, evidence of the highest and most unimpeachable character, found among old Court files in the State Library at Concord, N. H., and a careful study of the history of Nicholas Lisson and his family, have been found of the greatest possible service.

As before intimated, these affidavits, two by Bean and one by Lisson, made in 1694, show Lisson to have been "eighty years old," and hence to have been born in 1614; and Bean "sixty years old," and hence to have been born in 1634. These dates of birth become, as we shall see, prime factors in our determinations. A somewhat careful review of Lisson's history will be found extremely useful.

From the earliest records of the town of Salem it is found, (under date of July 30, 1637) that; "Nicholas Lisson desireth to be an inhabitant and to keepe ye ferry between ye towne and Darbies' ffort and is referred to next meeting." Fortunately for us this record, which seems to indicate his comparatively recent arrival, and as yet no "settlement," was duly made and remains to us, for it appears that the entry was cancelled later and apparently the application was withdrawn, for it does not appear that Lisson became then, or later, an "inhabitant" of Salem.

The reason is apparently not far to find. The new settlement at Marblehead seems to have offered more attractions, as we find that in the same year, 1637, (Rhoads' History of Marblehead, p. 12, and Essex Institute Collections, vol. IV, p. 117,) "Nicholas Listen" [the name is spelled, in different records, eight different ways] is allowed, with others, as inhabitants with them at Marblehead, and allowed two acres for planting."

On "January 1, 1637/8, a meeting was held at Salem and a vote of £120 was ordered, of which £8 were to be assessed upon the following inhabitants of Marblehead" £5—Nicholas Listen, "and later it appears (Essex Institute Collections, vol. IV, p. 182) that: "To William Keene, Nicholas Listen, on John Peche's neck [Neck] 3 acres more" were allowed.

These data sufficiently establish the time of his appearance and taking-up of residence at Salem and Marblehead. It becomes of interest and moment to know how old he then was, and what his "social condition."

As it appears by his affidavit that he was born in 1614, he must have been, in 1637, when first heard of, at Salem, a young man but twenty-three years old, but from the fact that land was allotted him, and from the other evidences in hand, he seems to have been already "a family man." As Mary, the putative eldest daughter of John Bean and his putative first wife, (Hannah Lisson) was born (according to "old Norfolk" records) June 18, 1655, the inference is logical that her parents were married as early as 1654. Assuming, as we properly may, in view of the known marriage customs of that day, both in Old and New England, that marriages were not very often contracted before the husband was of age, it follows that Nicholas Lisson was not married, much, if any, before 1635, and that Hannah, his eldest daughter, was not born before 1636, making her but eighteen years old when she married John Bean, in 1654, and nineteen when she became the mother of Mary, in 1655. It appears then, that Nicholas Lisson was married and had, at least, one child (Hannah) when he arrived at Salem in 1637. It is hardly necessary to suggest that his age precludes the probability of an earlier marriage. It is obvious that his marriage and the birth of his first child (Hannah Lisson), in all probability, occurred "beyond seas," and that, if the latter did so occur, Hannah Lisson must have crossed the ocean under two years of age, "an infant in arms," having very likely been born at the former home of her father, which Blaisdell declares to have been "upon the Scotch-English border." That Nicholas Lyssen was of Scotch or Scotch-Irish descent, his name and affiliations, as well as family tradition, amply attest.

We know by John Bean's own affidavit certifying his age, that he could have been (having been born in 1634) but three years old in 1637, when we first find Lysson at Salem, and if he "came over on the same vessel" with the wife he apparently first married here, Hannah Lissin, he also must have come in his parents' arms,—an infant.

That Nicholas Lissin and his wife (probably Alice) and the parents of John Bean "came over in the same ship" is not impossible—though doubtful—but the following is clear;

1st, That if John Bean came in the same ship with Lisson's daughter Hannah, as tradition—united to what we now know —would imply, Bean must have come prior to 1637 and as an infant; and

2d, That if the respective parents and their children did come at this time, in the same ship, young Bean, as well as Hannah

Lisson, must have grown up from infancy, in New England. That Hannah seemingly did so is beyond doubt; that John Bean did so is far less certain and quite improbable.

It follows from the foregoing that one end, or the other, of the old tradition as to a first wife of John Bean, falls to the ground. If Bean married Hannah Lisson (as will appear beyond cavil) she must have been the wife he married here "after his arrival," and she must have been the "girl who came over on the same ship,"—if that part of the tradition holds good.

But if Bean came over on the same ship with the Lissons, he could not have had a wife whom he "married beyond seas" and who "died on the voyage," for when the Lissons came over he was but two years old. If, on the other hand, he did not come when the Lissons did, then he did not marry "a daughter,"—as Mr. D. G. Bean puts it,—"of one of the passengers on the same vessel," for the parents of Hannah, whom he married, came in 1636/7, as we have seen.

It is obvious that, if John Bean came as an infant when the Lissons did, with his parents, then these parents should have somewhere appeared in New England, in all the years between 1737 and 1654, as the Lissons did; but although there was a Philip Bean at Salem in 1638, he does not appear to have stood in any relation to John, and his record is obscure at best. It must be held as very doubtful if John Bean came to this country for some years after 1637.

It has been suggested that John Bean might have been the John Berne, one of Cromwell's Scotch prisoners, who, among a large number of others, were taken at the battle of Dunbar and shipped abroad as "Redemptioners,"—i.e., as servants, whose service was sold for a term of years, by which they were to "redeem" themselves from the expense incurred on their account. This John Berne was one of a large number of such prisoners sent to Boston in the "John and Sarah" of London, in 1651, whose time was sold for a term of years, but with the proviso that they could have their liberty, at any time, upon repayment of what had been expended upon them.

The battle of Dunbar was fought September 3, 1650, when our John Bean would have been but sixteen years of age, but it is matter of record that others quite as young were engaged against Cromwell on that day, and were sent here as prisoners, while three years of service here might have really intervened between 1651 and 1654. There would be very little to consider in this suggestion, however, were it not for the stubborn and interesting fact that Mary Lisson, the youngest daughter of Nicholas, (and sister of Hannah, who married John Bean,) did marry Alexander Gordon, who is confidently asserted by his descendants to have been one of those very Scotch prisoners sent to Boston, and with whose grandchildren we shall have later to deal. There was, except for the element of longer time, no more likelihood of Mary Lisson marrying Alexander Gordon, a Scotch "Redemptioner," than of her sister Hannah likewise doing so.

Nicholas Lisson seems to have remained at Marblehead until as late as 1646, as his name appears in the creditor list of one George Pollard, a tradesman of Marblehead, in that year. He first finds mention, according to Bell's History of Exeter, (N. H.), on Exeter Town Records, in January, 1649, though he apparently had not then taken up residence there, even if he had become an "inhabitant," which is doubtful. No grant of land appears to have been made to him at Exeter until 1654, and then "conditionally," (probably conditioned upon his taking up residence there). In May, 1654, Lisson seems to have purchased land there, and what is more significant, to have bought a homestead by the "water side;" and the deed to this property was witnessed, as we have seen, by John Baine," who made "his mark," the name being written by some one for him, undoubtedly to correspond to the manner in which it was usually pronounced. Diligent and exhaustive research has placed it beyond reasonable doubt that there was then no one of that name (approximately) in this part of the country, except our own early ancestor, and though, at first, strongly inclined to question the identity, your committee is compelled to believe that this deed, (which of itself shows a close relation, in 1654, between Nicholas Bean and a John Bean, or Baine, is the first known appearance, of any kind, of our honored, First American progenitor.

That this appearance at Exeter did not indicate that either of these men had then taken up residence there, there are numerous proofs, which need not be gone into here and now, but it was the first, apparently, positive-evidence, that Lisson and

Bean had, in some way, a common interest, and this evidence, from that time on, notably persists and increases.

There were born to Lisson, (undoubtedly at Salem or Marblehead), two more daughters, Elizabeth, (born probably about 1638), who married Henry Magoon about 1658, and Mary, (born probably about 1640), who married, about 1663, Alexander Gordon, Cromwell's Scotch prisoner already referred to. Lisson, apparently, never had any children other than these three, certainly never any who lived to maturity.

Having received grants and purchased a homestead—as we have seen—at Exeter, Lisson appears to have moved there, permanently to reside, about 1654, and it is a warrantable inference that John Bean, (who was presumably for some little time, —at least while his courtship was in progress), a not remote neighbor, did not remove with him—as neither grant nor purchase, in his interest, appear at Exeter, until his well known advent there in 1660—and it is altogether probable that he married Hannah Lisson before her parents' removal thither.

Lisson had a somewhat checkered career, being, at times, a "well-to-do" and influential citizen and town officer of Exeter, but ultimately losing most of his property through unfortunate contracts, and though dying solvent (as the settlement of his estate shows), left little or nothing, certain lands of which he held a "right-expectant," not being "set off" in his interest by the town of Exeter, until some thirty years after his death, which occurred in 1714, at the great age, as noted, of one hundred years. To the transactions incident to the division of this belated land-allotment, we are indebted for the proof-positive of the marriage of Hannah Lisson and John Bean, and for certain other almost equally valuable data, all of this data helping to make clear the early—and in themselves not wholly intelligible—relations observed as early existing between Lisson and Bean. Specific mention of these transactions includes, among others;

(a) The witnessing of Lisson's deed from Dudley, April 18, 1654, (the year Bean and Hannah Lisson presumably married);

(b) The conjoint-grant of land to Lisson and Bean in 1660;

(c) Frequent mention in deeds, of the adjoining-relation of lands of Lisson and Bean;

(d) The conjoint interest in, and knowledge of, the saw-mill properties of John Gilman and Edw. Gilman, concerning which the affidavits of Lisson and Bean were made in 1694,—and

(e) The evident identity of interest which clearly drew Bean, soon after the death of his first wife (Lisson's daughter), to his father-in-law, at Exeter, to take up land with him and locate beside him there.

There is absolutely no evidence indicating that John Bean removed to Exeter, from whatever place may have been his home, until after the obvious death of the first wife, Hannah, which occurred, probably, in 1659, soon after the (supposed) birth of her (probable) third child and second daughter, Hannah, in 1659–60. Bean was, apparently, by her (probable) death at this time, left with three small children on his hands, the eldest but five years old,—and the most natural place for him to turn with them, till he could make a new marriage and a new home for them, was toward their grandmother Lisson's, at Exeter. He seems to have speedily found his way there, for in 1660, he was given a grant of ten acres of land there, by the town, conjointly with his father-in-law, Lisson, which seems proof-positive that they were there, for the first time, together, as up to this time Lisson's several grants and purchases had been to, and by, himself alone. It is well-nigh certain therefore, that Bean, arriving at man's estate near the coast, probably near Salem or Marblehead, married Hannah Lisson at her father's home at Marblehead, as stated, in 1654, (though possibly at Exeter), but continued to live at or near the coast, somewhere in "old Norfolk county," until the (presumed) death of his wife Hannah, in 1659/60, when he permanently removed to Exeter, and "settled" beside his father-in-law, where he soon found a new wife and reëstablished his own home.

Your committee fully agree with the conclusions of Dr. Drummond, (as expressed in the "Proceedings" of 1898,) that; "neither Mary nor Henry [the first two children of John Bean] were born in Exeter." The records of the town of Exeter, which register many earlier births in other families, do not record theirs, while "old Norfolk county records" register both, though from an apparent error, noted by Dr. Drummond (and your committee agrees with his conclusions), the date given as that of Henry's birth was, probably, that of his death, though, as it seemingly occurred after Bean's removal to Exeter, it would have naturally been expected on Exeter records. Inasmuch as there has been some doubt expressed about this entry of Henry's birth (or death), and as it has been suggested, moreover, that the entry in regard to Henry, in the "old Norfolk county records," was, perhaps, really intended for Hannah, the supposed third child of John and Hannah (Lisson) Bean—of whose birth no record has been anywhere found—it has seemed well to your committee to demonstrate that there were BOTH Henry and Hannah born to John Bean. To do this it is requisite only to prove that John Bean had, in all, just twelve children.

As he was but twenty-one years old when married to Hannah Lisson, in 1624, he is not likely to have been married before, or to have had any child before Mary, born 1665.

Beginning then with her, the list runs:

Mary, b. 1655
Henry, b. 1657
d. 1662-3
Hannah, b. 1659
} Undoubtedly children of Hannah (Lisson) Bean.

John 1st, b. 1661
d. 1666
Daniel, b. 1662-3
Samuel, b. 1665
John 2d., b. 1668
Margaret, b. 1670
James, b. 1672
Jeremiah, b. 1675
Elizabeth, b. 1678
Catherine, b. abt. 1680
} Undoubtedly children of Margaret (——) Bean.

—12 in all.

The birth of Catherine, the last of the list, nowhere appears of record, any more than does that of her half-sister Hannah, but her birth as one of John Bean's children and his youngest daughter, is conclusively proven by his equal provision for her, along with his three other daughters then living, (Hannah,—Mrs. Whittaker—being then dead) naming her, in her place and order after them, by her married name of Catherine Dolloff. Hannah, —Mrs. Whittaker—had been killed by the Indians in 1692 and so was omitted from this deed of 1715. Her existence, both as a daughter of Nicholas Lisson and as wife of John Bean, has now been too thoroughly established by the deeds of Holdredge Kelly and wife and other collateral evidence, to be open to question. The early suggestion that Hannah Lisson might have married some other John Bean than ours, is totally negatived by the many close associations proven between Nicholas Lisson and our John Bean of Exeter and the total absence from mention, of any kind, of any other John Bean that would "fill the bill."

The whole twelve children of John Bean are therefore fully accounted for. But how do we know there should be just twelve and not more? Very fortunately—and as if to lighten a little, in this case, the otherwise very arduous and difficult task of the Bean genealogist, and apparently for no good and sufficient reason, though several very rational guesses in regard to it are possible,—James Bean, the sixth son of John Sen^{r}, on May 30, 1735, (nearly twenty years after the death of his father), conveyed to his younger brother, Jeremiah;—"Ye eleventh part of all ye real estate of my Honored ffather John Bean, late of Exeter, Deceased." By these words he evidently intended to quit-claim to his brother, all and whatever share or interest it might be found he had in any real estate to which his father might possibly have been—and should be proven—entitled, and this possible share or interest he states at precisely "one eleventh." Why "one eleventh?" Plainly because his father had had just twelve children, of whom two, Henry and John 1st., had died in infancy, leaving ten, but as the law and practice of those days required that the eldest son should always have "a double portion," estates were always divided into more portions by one than there were persons to share them, so that each should have one share and the eldest son an extra one. As there were ten children of John Bean living, or represented, at his death, to divide any real estate that might be found coming to him, there would, necessarily, be eleven shares and James sold his "eleventh" to his brother Jeremiah, who, very likely, thought he had discovered some real estate coming to his father. Such deeds were very common in Plymouth Colony, Mass., where the great land-grants, or "Purchases," made from the Indians, were held, in part, "in common," for years, and were gradually cut up and divided among those holding "rights" in them, these divisions extending over many years. Dr. Drummond, rather surprisingly, says of this transaction;—"What the purpose of this deed was, or upon what idea it was based, I have been utterly even unable to guess." If the good Doctor's large and varied practice had lain in the "Old Colony," or had even led him into the matter of the deferred divisions of land-grants elsewhere, he could not have failed to understand the intent of such a deed. In fact, the very case of Nicholas Lisson and his heirs, through which we obtain our present knowledge of his daughter's relation to our ancestor John Bean, is a case precisely "in point." It seems from the documents in your committee's hands, that the town of Exeter had pledged a tract of forty acres to Lisson before his death, and his appraisers reckoned it, at first, as part of his estate. His administrators endeavored to have it "set off" to them, but reported themselves, in 1728, in their final account, as unable to do so. By some influence, in 1743, the forty acres were "set off" by the town of Exeter, to Lisson and his heirs (some thirty years after his death) and they were, by the order of Court, equally divided among the living representatives of his three daughters (presumably, therefore, his only heirs) Hannah, (Mrs. Bean); Elizabeth, (Mrs. Magoon), and Mary, (Mrs. Gordon). As we have seen, Hannah Bean's sole living representative was, apparently, her granddaughter, Hannah (Whittaker) Kelly, wife of Holdridge Kelley of Stratham, N. H., to whose deeds in this very matter, we are so much indebted for our knowledge of Hannah Lisson as first wife of John Bean. It was this "narrowing down" of Hannah (Lisson) Bean's one-third of this forty acres into the hands of only one person, that led to the careful research and analysis which settled that Hannah Lisson could have had but three children by John Bean, of whom the eldest Mary, (who married Joel Judkins,) was one; Henry, (who died in infancy,) the second; and Hannah, (who married Abraham Whittaker, Jr.,) the third. Careful investigation made it perfectly certain that, in 1743, when the land was divided, Mary Judkins was dead and it is very doubtful if she had, then, any living heirs. If not, the entire third would, and evidently did, inure to Hannah (Whittaker) Kelly who seems to have been, at that date, the sole survivor of her mother's (Hannah Bean Whittaker's) four or five very miserable children who suffered many things from the Indians (including the loss of their mother), and from the poverty and incapacity of their father.

It would have been just such a case as this that Jeremiah Bean had in mind, and that one of the three heirs of Nicholas Lisson had, hoping that, ultimately, the grant of forty acres would be made on his "right," in his favor, though he (Lisson) was long since deceased, and that he might buy the "one-third"

(instead of "one-eleventh"), share that was held by one of the other parties,—say the Magoon or Gordon interests—"on the chances." It was nearly twenty years after his father's death that Jeremy Bean bought his brother James "one-eleventh," but it was thirty years after Nicholas Lisson's death that the land which his administrators had despaired of, was obtained by his heirs.

This "one-eleventh" transaction amply proves that there were just twelve children of John Bean, neither more nor less—whatever the defects of the vital registration, either at Salem or Exeter, and therefore, that both Henry and Hannah were of the number, as both were essential to make up the twelve, and there was nowhere in the date line any chance for "slipping in" any other child to "make good," and no such anywhere appears, or is in any way suggested.

It will readily occur to all, that, if Hannah Lisson had been the mother of any others of John Bean's children, they, or their representatives, would have been entitled to share in this one-third of the forty acres, which came to her from her father's post-mortem allotment. Daniel was the next child after Hannah who lived to grow up, (John 1st, being but a few years old at death), and his descendants are numerous to-day. The same is true of Samuel's descendants. The fact that they, or their descendants, had no share in this property of John Bean's first wife, Hannah Lisson, is well-nigh proof-positive that her last child was Hannah (who married Whittaker), and that all John Bean's later children were by the second wife, Margaret ———.

It remains only to say a word as to the very gratifying discovery of the maiden name of Mary, wife of Samuel Bean, whose identity has long been diligently, but fruitlessly, sought. As is very often the case, the discovery came while engaged in research not directly in Bean channels, and as the result of analyses of collateral data, and not as direct information.

A deed dated March 7, 1740, now in possession of the Secretary of State, at Concord, N. H., (having been transferred there from the County Registry of Deeds at Exeter), bears witness that "John March of Kingstown," sold to Benjamin Severance, land in Kingstown,—"It being the southerly half part of my homestead where I now live, which land I bought of Grandfather Severance, late of said Kingstown, deceased."

The language of the deed was just such as would arrest—as it did—a genealogist's attention, hints at obscure "grandfathers" always being matter of keen interest to such, and in this particular case very much so, as there was a sharp quest on foot for the ancestors and relationships of the said John March.

The deed was made by March to Benj. Severance, and was but one of several between March and members of the Severance family, of the "trading" kind, which usually indicate relationship between the parties. But the expression,—"land I bought of Grandfather Severance," was such as to suggest reference to a person very well known, in fact, familiarly so, as such "grandfather," by both the parties, and, apparently, standing in that relation to both.

The search was hence immediately begun, and earnestly pushed, for a Severance who stood in the relation of "grandfather" to both John March and Benj. Severance. Careful inquiry soon developed the fact that John March—whose wife was Margaret, daughter of Samuel Bean—could not himself have had a "grandfather" Severance, as his father's father was Gen. John March and his mother's father, Philip Fowler, and it became evident that he was speaking "in the family sense," adopting his wife's grandfather as his own, and speaking of him, evidently, in the wonted household term of "Grandfather Severance." An examination of his wife's line speedily simplified things. The wife of Samuel Bean, the father of Margaret (Bean) March, was known to be the unidentified Mary, whose identity has so long baffled inquiry. Was she a Severance, and had she a common grandfather with the Benjamin Severance of John March's deed? Examination of the Severance lineage of Salisbury and vicinity quickly disclosed that Ephraim Severance, Jr., (b. Dec. 2, 1689,) had a son Benjamin, who proved (by an examination of deeds, etc.) to be the Benjamin to whom March's deed was made, while Ephraim Severance, Sr., of Salisbury, Kingstown, etc., had, Ephraim, Jr., (b. Dec. 2, 1689) and Mary, (b. July 2, 1685,) brother and sister, children of one father. It only remained to learn whether this daughter, Mary, married Samuel Bean. On consulting Mr. D. W. Hoyt, the authority, in general, on the early families of that region—but, like most "authorities," not infallible—it was found he had given Mary as married to one Abraham Watson, in his book, but on correspondence proved that he was by no means certain. He gives as his reason for so doing that; "The Salisbury records state that Watson married Mary Severance, and I know of no other Mary of proper age." One hardly knows what comment to make upon such genealogical work as this, which deliberately appropriates a woman because her name and age happen to fit a certain record, and, without further identification, publishes her as the wife of a man, willy nilly, sending her down the centuries in print, as wife of a man and mother of children she, perhaps, never even saw, on no better evidence than this. If ever a train of close-linked circumstantial evidence proves anything, the clear, interlocked evidence in this case proves that, Mary Severance, (daughter of Ephraim Severance, Sr.,) married Samuel Bean, and that their daughter, Margaret Bean, the granddaughter of "Grandfather Severance," married John March, while Benjamin Severance is equally shown to be the grandson of "Grandfather" Ephraim Severance, Sr., through his father Ephraim, Jr., brother of our Mary; and that this was precisely the relation indicated by March's deed.

Nothing can well be more logically certain than that Mary Severance was the wife of our Samuel Bean; and if she was ever, which is wholly improbable, the wife of Abraham Watson, it was by another marriage. Time has not yet permitted your committee to "prove the negative" as to the alleged Watson marriage, but that it will be fully accomplished, before another report is made, there need be no grave doubt.

Your committee is specially indebted to Miss Alice I. Blaisdell of Haverhill for the use of the note books of the late J. H. Blaisdell, her brother, covering his researches, which were intelligent, thorough and painstaking, into the family histories of Whittakers, Beans and allied families, especially in the matters of wills, deeds, etc.

The chairman desires also to express his obligation and thanks to the President and Secretary of the Association, and to Miss Etha L. Sargent of the Secretary of State's office at Concord, N. H., for very considerable assistance in the work of preparing this report. Its nature and the conditions attendant were—as will be obvious to all—such as to render it impracticable to call upon the committee, at large, for the usual detailed work.

All of which is respectfully submitted for the Committee.

Azel Ames, Chairman.

The President spoke of the importance of publishing the unprinted proceedings of former meetings of the Association and especially the Genealogical and Necrological reports just presented, and of raising funds for the purpose. Contributions to this end were pledged by several.

At 2 o'clock the Association adjourned to the dining room and enjoyed the excellent dinner provided by "mine host" of the Franklin House. Post-prandial addresses of an informal nature were made by Mr. James Bean of San Jose, Cal., Mr. Orestes U. Bean of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Mr. Jefferson W. Bean, Assistant Postmaster of Holyoke, Mass.

The President being called away, Vice President George F. A. Bean of Rhode Island assumed the chair.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Cyrus E. Bean of Lawrence for the many courtesies and the delightful lunch for which the Association was indebted to him; to host Patterson of the Franklin House, and to the local press representatives.

The time and place for the next Reunion were left in the hands of the Executive Committee, and at 5 o'clock adjournment was taken, subject to the call of that committee.

FRANK C. BEAN, Secretary.

This contribution to the genealogy of a section of the John Bean Family,—made possible by the labors and interest of our departed associates and friends, Dr. and Mrs. Drummond—covers the record of the Descendants of Jonathan Bean[4]; (Jeremiah[3] James[2] John[1]) so far as relates to his three elder children,—Nathan[5], Sarah[5], and Phineas[5], and their posterity of the sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth generations. The genealogy of the posterity of the three younger children of Jonathan[4], viz.: Deborah[5], Jonathan[5], and Bridget[5],—is in process of preparation and will doubtless appear in the next issue of the "Proceedings" of the Association,—completing the record of this branch of the Bean Family.

JONATHAN[4] BEAN.

JONATHAN[4] BEAN, (Jeremiah[3], James[2], John[1],) was born in Exeter, (now Brentwood), September 10, 1736; he married Mary Leavett, daughter of Samuel and Ruth (Johnson) Leavett, born June 17, 1736; she died and he married , daughter of ; he died November 1, 1814, and she October 14, 1816.

Children, born in Candia:

Nathan[5], b. Sept. 21, 1758.
Sarah[5], b. Aug. 13, 1760.
Phineas[5], b. July 25, 1763.
Deborah[5], b. May 22, 1766.
Jonathan[5], b. June 15, 1769.
Bridget[5], b. Apr. 7, 1776.

VI. NATHAN[5] (Jonathan[4], Jeremiah[3], James[2], John[1]) born in Candia, September 21, 1758; he married, November 9, 1779, Hannah Buswell, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Winslow) Buswell, born January 28, 1758; she died, January 19, 1790, and he married, November 25, 1790, Elizabeth Towle, daughter of Samuel and Mary (Dearborn) Towle, of Candia, born September 29, 1761; he died, August 11, 1827, and she, September 9, 1832.

Children, born in Candia:

By first wife:

Sarah[6], b. Nov. 26, 1780.
Moses[6], b. Sept. 2, 1882.
Nathan[6], b. June 2, [or 5] 1784.
Isaac[6], b. May 26, 1786.
Miriam[6], b. Sept. 5, 1788.

By second wife:

Betsey[6], b. June 15, 1791;
Hannah[6], b. Feb'y 8, 1793.
Polly[6] (Mary), b. Dec. 22, 1794.
Olive[6], b. July 22, 1796.
Samuel[6], b. June 24, 1799.
Lucinda Silsbury[6], b. April 6, 1801.

VI. Sarah[5] Bean (Jonathan[4], Jeremiah[3], James[2], John[1]) was born in Candia, August 13, 1760; she married, August 24, 1778, Moses Gilman, son of Stephen and Rebecca (Coffin) Gilman, born January 5, 1756; he died, October 22, 1813, and she, March 22, 1839.

Children, born in Alton, N. H.:

David[6] Gilman, b. Aug. 19, 1779.
Sally[6] Gilman, b. Mar. 4, 1787.
Stephen[6] Gilman, b. April 1, 1789.
Moses[6] Gilman, b. Jan'y 11, 1792.
Jonathan[6] Gilman, b. Feb'y 6, 1797.
